

WISCONSIN: The Forces Roll In

By HARRY KELLY

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Congestion has begun to mark the campaign road in Wisconsin where a high source in Sen. Eugene McCarthy's camp acknowledged the senator's staff is being retooled to get fewer backfires.

But, the source added, "It's like trying to do a valve job in the middle of the Indianapolis 500."

With the state's primary coming up Tuesday, presidential hopefuls and their spokesmen were numerous in the Badger State.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, facing limited competition from former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen and California Gov. Ronald Reagan on the Republican ballot, said he is preparing a major statement for broadcast Sunday concerning the Vietnam war and "the problem of diplomacy at the highest level involving the Soviet Union."

Three Johnson administration officials were in Wisconsin—Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien, Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and consumer affairs adviser Betty Furness.

McCarthy, the only Democrat listed on the Tuesday primary ballot besides Johnson, was showing signs of polishing the campaign efforts begun in New Hampshire with the help of young persons.

A source high in the McCarthy camp, who asked not to be identified, acknowledged a staff rebuilding program is under way.

But the source said critics of methods being used in the Minnesota senator's campaign should not view the situation by an "organization chart."

Few professionals joined the McCarthy move when the senator originally challenged Johnson, the source said, and the campaign was handled by "dedicated amateurs who learn fast."

McCarthy, he added, is now a man running in 50 states, "which was not true before New Hampshire."

McCarthy, planning visits to northern Wisconsin cities today, said in Chicago Wednesday that early in the campaign, "everybody was happy, kind of running his own operation. Beyond Wisconsin, I expected we'd have to organize, especially after the entrance of Sen. (Robert) Kennedy, which made it a different kind of campaign."

Nixon, speaking at a Madison news conference prior to addressing a farm audience in Wausau, said the statement he plans Sunday "will cover the problem of military recommendations that have been made" in the Vietnam conflict.

"Over a period of time, I've probably been the administration's most consistent critic," he said. "This speech will be along those lines."

Nixon predicted a victory for Johnson over McCarthy next Tuesday, and said he doubts Sen. Kennedy can stop the President from being renominated.

Clark addressed about 300 students at the University of Wisconsin where shouting by anti-war hecklers had forced Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman to halt a speech last week. The attorney general, confronted with student questions reflecting criticism of administration policies in Vietnam, got a polite but restrained reception. He drew heavy applause, however, when he discussed civil rights.

O'Brien, campaign manager for the late John F. Kennedy, appeared in behalf of Johnson in Milwaukee and Green Bay.

The postmaster general said it is better for a president to stay in Washington and let others campaign for him.

"The people begin to wonder who is tending the store," O'Brien said.

Miss Furness, describing herself as a "lobbyist for the consumer," addressed an Appleton group Wednesday, and was to be the guest of Mrs. Henry Maier, wife of Milwaukee's mayor, at a reception today.

Stassen, speaking Wednesday in Milwaukee, has been one of the state's most determined candidates despite his underdog role.

The former Minnesota governor, in his frequent addresses to Wisconsin voters, has worked the theme that he sees little difference between the military opinions of Nixon and Johnson on the Vietnam issues.

N. Viet Buildup Near Hue Blasted By Tonsof Bombs

By GEORGE ESPEY

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52 jet bombers pounded North Vietnamese supply depots and command centers in the A Shau Valley west of Hue today with hundreds of tons of high explosives in an effort to blunt a new enemy buildup threatening the former imperial capital.

2 Million Pounds of Bombs

Thirty-five eight-engine Stratofortresses flew five separate missions against the valley 50 miles west of Hue, raining nearly 2 million pounds of bombs on the North Vietnamese positions.

The bombers, flying at more than 20,000 feet and unseen from the ground, mounted three raids Wednesday afternoon on truck parks, gun positions, bunkers and storage depots in the valley. They returned this morning for two more missions.

During the same period, the B52s flew two missions against North Vietnamese ammunition depots and troop concentrations around Khe Sanh. For the third consecutive day, Marines at Khe Sanh reported a relatively light shelling, fewer than 100 rounds. Marine casualties were reported as light.

The B52s have been averaging about five missions a day in support of Khe Sanh.

Russian trucks have been spotted regularly in recent weeks moving from the A Shau Valley toward Hue with ammunition and other war materials.

Much of Route Rebuilt

Lt. Gen. Robert E. Cushman, commander of the northern 1st Corps, said North Vietnamese engineers have rebuilt much of old provincial Route 547 running 40 miles over mountains from the A Shau Valley to Hue.

The valley has served as a massive enemy supply depot on the Ho Chi Minh network of trails from Laos since North Vietnamese troops overran the U.S. Special Forces camp there two years ago.

In early March, the top U.S. commanders in Vietnam predicted the North Vietnamese would strike again at Hue because the Communist command feels it is the invasion gateway along the coastal plains to South Vietnam.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams has departed Washington for Vietnam, leaving behind virtually no clues as to his future U. S. troop plans, or to his own military future. Story Page 3.

Elsewhere the U.S. command announced that 1,989 Viet Cong have been killed in the biggest allied offensive of the war around Saigon.

Latest reports said an American task force of tanks and infantrymen killed 99 Viet Cong troops 8 miles northwest of Saigon in two days of fighting in Operation Quyet Thang—Resolved to Win.

The combined U.S. and South Vietnamese offensive by 50,000 troops was launched 18 days ago in five provinces around Saigon. Its aim is to clear the area of enemy forces and to regain the offensive from the Viet Cong.

American and South Vietnamese forces have lost 178 dead in the operation and are killing 12 enemy soldiers for every allied soldier lost, if the U.S.

Command count is correct. This is twice the average American kill ratio of six-to-one.

Military spokesmen said the latest casualty figure for Operation Quyet Thang were 74 Americans and 104 South Vietnamese troops killed and 66 Americans and 57 South Vietnamese wounded. Allied forces have taken 306 prisoners.

U.S. headquarters also reported that the number of American troops killed in action in Vietnam last week increased slightly over the previous week, while the number of Viet Cong slain decreased.

349 Yanks Killed

Headquarters said 349 Americans were killed in action during the seven-day period ending at midnight last Saturday compared to 336 the previous week. The U. S. Command said 2,223 enemy soldiers were killed last week, compared to 3,642 a week earlier.

U.S. warplanes flew 95 missions over North Vietnam Wednesday. The targets included a radar site 17 miles from the Red Chinese border, One Air Force F4 Phantom was lost to ground fire in the southern panhandle and the two crewmen were listed as missing. It was the 814th American plane lost in combat over North Vietnam in three years of bombing.

As the B52s were bombarding the A Shau Valley west of Hue, a South Vietnamese task force and U.S. helicopter gunships raked enemy positions 14 miles southeast of Hue along National Highway 1. Military spokesmen said 117 enemy were killed, while South Vietnamese casualties were only five wounded.

Sweep Continues

In the Quyet Thang offensive, the American task force continued a sweep today through a sector of brush and bamboo around Trang Bang, a key district headquarters town that has been the focal point of heavy fighting since Sunday.

Little contact with the enemy was reported, despite a furious battle Wednesday for the hamlet of Ap Long Muc in which 99 Viet Cong were killed. American losses were put at two dead and 38 wounded.

Elsewhere, fighting was reported on two other fronts in the far northern sector.

North Vietnamese troops pounded on U.S. Marines making a helicopter assault south of the Rockpile, a frontier outpost, cutting into them with machine guns and Claymore mines.

Seven Marines were killed and 14 wounded. Enemy casualties were not known.

Turkey---2d Time Around

WASHINGTON (AP) — After government school lunch inspectors rejected 30,000 pounds of frozen turkey because it had thawed, the turkey was refrozen, thawed again to permit new labeling, refrozen once more and sold to supermarkets in New York City.

That incident was one among many turned up by a special House Government Operations subcommittee in an investigation to determine how often sub-standard goods turned back by government purchasing agents are peddled to unsuspecting consumers as quality merchandise.

Public Hearings Stated

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., will open public hearings on its findings within a month.

A member of the subcommittee staff said the investigation began after one of Rosenthal's constituents complained about the unusual bitterness of some coffee she had bought at a grocery in Queens.

The subcommittee spokesman said the coffee had been recalled from commissaries after authorities learned it was five years old, the government couldn't return the shipment to the processor, he had gone bankrupt. So it sold the coffee to commercial suppliers, who resold it to retailers without changing the military label.

The subcommittee spokesman refused to identify any of the individuals involved in the investigation, but said they would be summoned to testify.

Among cases to be examined at the hearings are two others involving frozen foodstuffs. The spokesman gave these details:

—The Defense Department rejected 18,563 frozen dinners because their bacteria count was too high. A federal inspector said he wouldn't put the food in his freezer, much less eat it. But the processor salvaged some of his investment. He sold the dinners, at a discount, to his own employees.

—Another 30,000 pounds of frozen turkey, purchased by the Department of Agriculture, had thawed by the time it reached its destination. The department promptly shipped it back to the packer, who just as promptly refroze the meat and sold it again—half to the Defense Department and half to the North Carolina prison system.

An expert at the Agriculture Department said meat which is thawed and then refrozen can be dangerous. Bacteria begins forming as soon as the meat thaws and will survive refreezing, he said.

Uncover Others

Subcommittee investigators also uncovered cases involving products other than food, the spokesman said.

The Defense Supply Agency rejected one lot of 450 pairs of trousers because of faulty stitching, tears and machine damage. The trousers later turned up in a Southern California surplus store, still labeled to indicate they met government standards.

CDA Meet: LBJ Must Be Stopped

Addressing a jam-packed Coalition for a Democratic Alternative audience at the Governor Clinton Hotel last night, Assemblyman Jerome Kretschmer of New York City, hammered home the point that Lyndon Johnson "must be stopped" in his campaign for renomination, and philosophized that "politics is the art of the possible."

Cautions on Division

Among local and area luminaries who applauded Kretschmer's statements, including his contention that "an incumbent president can be opposed and those looking for an alternative will find it if division is avoided between supporters of Senators Eugene McCarthy and Robert Kennedy by fielding united slates against Johnson," were Mayor Raymond Garraghan of Kingston.

Other Democratic leaders at the CDA meeting included John Stillman of Cornwall, former assistant secretary of Commerce and ex-member of the N.Y. State Bridge Authority; Mayor Eugene Glusker of Ellenville; Supervisor Robert Schneller of Hurley and Woodstock Town Democratic Chairman John Bonilla, of Woodstock.

Kretschmer, who opened his remarks by asking his audience to "forgive me my sins—I campaigned for Joe Resnick here," was an organizer and founder of CDA. He has served several terms in the State Assembly, each time fighting the old-line Democratic leadership in his West Side New York district to win by landslide votes of as much as 7 to 1. He said CDA was founded because, "We have a President who really refuses to govern the country."

More Issues Than Viet

He maintained that Vietnam was the only issue in the Presidential campaign up to six weeks ago, but insisted this is no longer true. He voiced the opinion that, "We will have a negotiated peace (probably before the national convention) because everybody knows the country is sick and tired of the war."

He proposed instead that the major issues today are America's 14-million rural poor, the 10-million people today living in this country at a starvation level, the crisis in the ghettos, and Lyndon Johnson's refusal to comment on the report of his Riot Commission.

Kretschmer predicted that Sen. McCarthy would win the Presidential primary in Wisconsin next week by 52 or 53 per cent of the vote and trouncing Johnson. But he urged that Democratic dissenters "not allow themselves to be divided if they are to accomplish their dump Johnson purpose."

Policy Statement Read

A policy statement was read at last night's meeting by Woodstock CDA Chairman Theodore Geertsema, outlining the stand of the Coalition as it exists in the 28th Congressional District. The statement noted that "CDA welcomes Sen. Robert F. Kennedy into the growing ranks of Democrats who oppose the renomination of Lyndon Johnson."

It also said that, "While Sen. Eugene McCarthy has been at the focal point of the movement here for the past several months, CDA has always emphasized that the common goal is to gather ALL dissenting Democrats into one effective organization." It emphasized that "CDA has always sought and will continue to seek an alternative to Lyndon Johnson."

Last night's meeting was chaired by attorney William Mullany of Kingston. Other speakers included John Robinson, an organizer for the McCarthy for President movement, who has been working in Massachusetts and New Hampshire, and Dr. Curt Beck, of LaGrange, a founder of Concerned Democrats of Dutchess County.

The Sum Up

All those who spoke, including members of the presiding panel and people in the audience made it clear that at least those present felt they could not vote for Johnson again. Perhaps the assemblyman from New York summed it up best when he said, "I'm for Eugene Kennedy or Rob-through to an alternative choice for President in answer to the present disenchantment and confusion in the country.

seemed to be a "hopeful feeling nationally," he said, that the Coalition effort is "an intangible thing that happens once in awhile in history," and he hailed Eugene McCarthy's victory in New Hampshire as giving the "impetus that will carry the Democratic party

Whale Meets Ocean Liner

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—The 28,000-ton British liner Himalaya sliced through a 90-foot whale in the Tasman Sea passengers and crewmen said.

First officer Charles Free said the whale appeared off the port bow.

"We felt very little on the bridge when we hit it, but passengers on the main deck and men in the engine room felt a shudder," he said.

F111 Fighter Lost

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the United States' controversial F111 fighters is overdue on a bombing mission in Southeast Asia and presumably lost, it was learned today. A squadron of the 1500-mile-an-hour F111s arrived in Thailand March 17.

The supersonic, swing-wing fighters cost several million dollars each.

Sources said the F111 and its two-man crew was en route from Thailand to a bombing mission over North Vietnam Wednesday. The plane has not been heard from since.

Revenge on the Horseless Carriage

LONDON (AP)—Thomas Norman, who doesn't own an auto, didn't see why his neighbors should wash their cars outside his house.

Norman came home from work, seized an ax, and marched up to an offending car. Three hefty swings crunched the auto hood, tore the grille and dented a wing. "My neighbors have four cars and they always park right across the front of my house. It's irritating," he explained in court Wednesday.

"I can see it is irritating and I can sympathize with you," said Judge N.N. McElligott, who conditionally discharged Norman and returned his ax.

THREATENING—Handcuffed, a man identified by police as Peter Jeffries, 27, has one foot over the edge of a building in New York as he threatens to jump. Jeffries reportedly went to a nearby narcotics rehabilitation center for assistance. Police say he became excited while waiting for attention and police handcuffed him while trying to calm him. Jeffries broke away and threatened to jump. Police managed to bring him to the ground and back to the center for attention. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Area Men Indicted On Drug Charges

Six Wawarsing men arrested in a March 1 narcotics raid in the Ellenville area were indicted late Wednesday by the March Grand Jury in Supreme Court.

They are Charles Mutz Sr., 72, operator of a motel in Kerhonkson and a former constable in the Town of Wawarsing; Frank Vega, 40, and Louis Rosado, 30, both of Maple Avenue, Ellenville; Victor Sanchez, 31;

Harry Guzman, 23, and Benedetto Lopez, 23, all of Ellenville.

All are charged with criminally selling a dangerous drug, second degree; criminal possession of a dangerous drug, second degree, and conspiracy in the second degree.

Guzman, who has been committed to Middletown State Hospital, and Mutz also are charged with criminally possessing a hypodermic instrument. Guzman also faces a firearm charge.

The narcotics raid was a combined venture of the United Narcotics Control by Law Enforcement (U.N.C.L.E.) including District Attorney Joseph P. Torracca's staff, state police Bureau of Criminal Information officers from Ellenville, Kingston and Sidney and Ellenville Police Chief Abe Rand and his staff.

Authorities at the time of the arrest revealed that all defendants are narcotics users except Mutz. At the hearing the day after the raid, it was reported Lopez and Guzman showed withdrawal symptoms and required treatment from an Ellenville physician.

At the time of the arrests it was reported that a quantity of heroin valued at $400 to $500 was confiscated. Authorities revealed that an undercover man had been working in the Ellenville area associating with suspected pushers of drugs several weeks before the arrests, gathering evidence which subsequently led to the crackdown and arrests.

Trespass Charges

Two Kingston teenagers were arrested and charged with criminal trespass, third, after allegedly breaking into Automobilia, Inc., 11 Hone Street last night. The pair, Robert Coddington, 19, of 50 Hunter Street and Robert Jones, 17, of 14 Abel Street, were arrested by John W. Buck, director of Automobilia. They were confined to the Ulster County Jail after the 6:02 p. m. incident.

Throughout County

Many Grass-Brush Fires

While fire officials throughout the county have issued warnings to area residents about the pending dangers of forest fires and cautioned people against outdoor burning of anything, volunteer firemen in many districts were called out Wednesday for a second day to quell a rash of fires of various types.

The lack of foliage and the dryness of plants has caused a serious condition throughout the Mid-Hudson Valley and the threat of fires is steadily increasing and has caused concern among fire company officials.

Out-of-door burning is prohibited in the City of Kingston and many districts of the county, but in some areas burning is allowed when residents who intend to burn obtain a permit from the local fire department officials.

In cases where burning is permitted — and necessary — residents are urged to have hoses, pails of water, brooms and other equipment that would handily be used in checking any fire that might be swept out of control by a gust of wind.

Grass and brush fires headed the log at the County Fire Control Center on Wednesday, but dispatchers also reported a vacant house fire occurred on Main Street, Rosendale, about noon and Tillson Fire Company in charge of Second Lieut. James Hicks was on standby alert.

Fire Chief Edward Ricks of Centerville Fire Department reported three brush fires were quelled by volunteers from the local fire units. Tillson firemen extinguished two brush fires and a grass blaze, Lieut. Hicks reported.

Plattekill volunteers answered a call for a fire in a house on Hunt Road, and Kripplishush firemen assisted by a neighboring unit extinguished fire in a shack.

Brush fires were reported in other districts including Saugerettes, Saxton, Shawangunk Valley, Cedar Grove, Katsbaan, Marlboro, Town of Ulster, Walker Valley and Walkkill.

Mutual aid reported grass fires were quelled by firemen in the districts of Clintondale, Woodstock, New Paltz, Glasco, Boiceville, Marlboro, Shawangunk Valley, Highland, Walker Valley.

Residents have been urged by fire officials to keep the telephone number of their local department near the telephone so that no delay will result in summoning firemen in the event of a fire.

Abrams Back to Viet, No Clues to Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. William C. Abrams, who has departed Washington for Vietnam, leaving behind virtually no clues as to his own military future, "I look for more fighting," the deputy U.S. commander in Vietnam when asked to forecast the future course of the war.

And he dismissed as tenuous the speculation that he's in line to succeed Gen. William C. Westmoreland when the U.S. commander steps down to become Army chief of staff by July 2.

"The White House speaks for itself," said the 53-year-old charge of the pacification program in South Vietnam conceded the Viet Cong handed them their Tet offensive.

But Ambassador Robert W. Komer, predicted the South Vietnamese will recoup their losses faster than the enemy does it.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee meanwhile introduced a resolution urging President Johnson to create a Cabinet-level post to "deal exclusively with the question of ending the war in Vietnam."

The proposal by the Arkansas Democrat and fervent war-policy critic would not be binding on Johnson if the Senate adopts it.

A committee spokesman said the resolution had been routinely sent to the State Department for comment. One source suggested administration and public reaction to the plan would determine whether committee hearings on it would be scheduled.

Fulbright did not suggest the name of anyone to fill the proposed peace-seeker post, but called for Johnson to appoint "a man of high international stature who would not have been previously identified with any school of thought" on Vietnam.

The appointee would have "sole responsibility for conducting negotiations and full authority to take the initiative in promoting such negotiations," Fulbright said.

Gagarin's Death Soviets' Second Tragedy for Space

By MICHAEL JOHNSON
MOSCOW (AP) — Handsome Soviet cosmonaut Yuri A. Gagarin, who flew the world's first manned space mission in April 1961, died in a training-flight crash Wednesday.

The crash also killed Col. Vladimir S. Seryogin, commander of an air unit and a member of the space backup team. The ashes of both Gagarin and Seryogin will be placed in the village of Smolovki. He became a member of the meetings of the Soviet Communist party, which he had joined and a delegate to important in 1960.

Gagarin opened the book on manned space flight on April 12, 1961, when he shot skyward in his Vostok space capsule and orbited the earth once. The trip lasted 108 minutes and Gagarin landed apart from the capsule by parachuting to earth near the village of Smolovki.

On May 5 the same year the United States entered the space race with a suborbital flight by Alan B. Shepard Jr.

Obscurity to Celebrity
Gagarin's spectacular space flight propelled him from obscurity to the foremost rank of Russian celebrities. After his 1961 one-orbit trip Gagarin stood atop Lenin's Tomb in Red Square with then-Premier Nikita Khrushchev and began to mingle with the world's great—a vibrant youth alongside older leaders from many countries.

It was all far removed from the collective farm on the plains of European Russia 100 miles west of Moscow where Yuri Gagarin was born March 9, 1934. His father, Alexei, was a carpenter. His mother, Anna Timofeyevna, was the picture of a Russian farm woman, stout, broad-faced, good-humored.

After World War II Yuri won admission to an industrial junior college at Saratov on the Volga River and learned to fly while attending school. He then went to the Soviet air force academy at Orenburg, and graduated with top honors in 1957—the year of the first Sputnik.

Changed His Life
The young pilot married a quiet, pretty medical technician, Valentina, who is now 33 years old. She survives along with their two daughters, Yelena, 9, and Galya, 7.

Gagarin's fame as a pioneer of the space age changed his life in many ways, and yet he remained a hard-working cosmonaut. He was the control officer on subsequent manned space flights and played important roles in the space program.

YURI A. GAGARIN

In the most honorable spot in the Soviet Union, the Kremlin Wall facing Red Square.

The news that the 34-year-old Soviet hero was dead plainly saddened many Russians. One radio announcer repeated the official report several times with deep emotion. The announcements were interspersed with slow funeral music from Tchaikovsky and Scriabin.

No details were given about the crash.

Gagarin's death was the second tragedy known to have hit the Soviet space program within a year. Last April 24 Col. Vladimir M. Komarov was killed when his Soyuz spacecraft crashed to earth.

Six U.S. astronauts have died in the line of duty.

Medicaid Decision Assailed

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A decision by Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz regarding the state's revised Medicaid program was labeled by a state senator Tuesday as a "belated glimmer of passion on the part of the administration."

Lefkowitz ruled Wednesday that persons who would be ineligible for Medicaid benefits after the program goes into effect April 1 will be able to continue receiving treatments if they began prior to that date.

The Medicaid program was slashed by $300 million earlier this year, about $100 million more than had been proposed by Gov. Rockefeller. The governor reluctantly signed the bill.

Sen. Seymour D. Thaler, D-Manhattan, denounced the Lefkowitz decision and pleaded with Republicans to "bring in a bill that would spell out the rights of the people to have continuing treatment. Let's make sure we clarify the rights of every doctor, dentist and patient."

Sen. William Adams of Buffalo, who led the Republican battle to trim the program, said he expected "no further problem" with the medical legislation.

Adams charged that Thaler "wants confusion" and accused him of "slinging mud at the Republicans in this house and in this administration."

The Lefkowitz decision meant, according to the Social Services Department, that an estimated 7,500 persons now receiving treatment in hospitals would continue to have their bills paid under the old plan. The cost for this treatment, the department said, would be $2.5 million.

Abrams Back to Viet, No Clues to Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. William W. Abrams has departed Washington for Vietnam, leaving behind virtually no clues as to future U.S. troop plans—or to his own military future.

"I look for more fighting," was the clipped response of the deputy U.S. commander in Vietnam when asked to forecast the future course of the war.

And he dismissed as fiercely the speculation that he's in line to succeed Gen. William C. Westmoreland when the U.S. commander steps down to become Army chief of staff by July 2.

"The White House speaks for itself," said the 53-year-old

Army general in referring newsmen to a White House refusal to comment on Westmoreland's successor.

His comments came in a planeside interview shortly before he flew out of Andrews Air Force Base for Vietnam. Like his two days of secrecy-cloaked talks with President Johnson and other U.S. officials in Washington, details of his return trip weren't disclosed.

The White House has said these talks did not involve Abrams' future and maintains no decision is imminent on war zone manpower changes.

In an interview with The Associated Press, the man in charge of the pacification program in South Vietnam conceded the Viet Cong handed the program a major setback with their Tet offensive.

But Ambassador Robert W. Komer, predicted the South Vietnamese will recoup their losses faster than the enemy does it.

Sen. William Adams of Buffalo, who led the Republican battle to trim the program, said he expected "no further problem" with the medical legislation.

Adams charged that Thaler "wants confusion" and accused him of "slinging mud at the Republicans in this house and in this administration."

The Lefkowitz decision meant, according to the Social Services Department, that an estimated 7,500 persons now receiving treatment in hospitals would continue to have their bills paid under the old plan. The cost for this treatment, the department said, would be $2.5 million.

Cancer Kickoff

Volunteers from throughout Ulster County attended the Cancer Crusade kickoff dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel last night. Participating in the program were (l-r) Richard Rochford, 1968 crusade chairman; Father Benjamin Kuhn, guest speaker; Dr. Harri Janssen, unit president; Pat Yaeger of New Paltz, a cured cancer patient, and James Rua, crusade treasurer for the past 11 years. The 1968 campaign will get underway Monday and will continue throughout the month of April. This year's goal is $50,000. Information on current cancer research and hopes for the future were outlined at the meeting yesterday. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Sober Lesson for U.S.

Just as the Communist Tet offensive set off a fundamental re-evaluation of America's ability to fight and win a limited, guerrilla-style war, the gold crisis has dealt a stunning blow to the illusion of American economic omnipotence.

For the first time in history, American tourists in London and Paris found their travelers' checks refused. Suddenly the mighty U.S. dollar was so much paper—for a few hours.

This, of course, can be attributed to unreasoning panic and short-sighted speculation, as can much of the gold-buying spree in the markets of Europe in past weeks. The dollar was not and is not in danger of collapse.

It is, however, under severe strain. The gold crisis, in effect, amounted to a vote of no confidence on the part of foreigners that the United States can continue the massive outlays it is making in the prosecution of the Vietnam war and still permit the domestic economy to go booming along without gravely eroding the dollar's strength as the stable rock undergirding the world's monetary system. It was, indeed, an unmistakable warning that we cannot do so.

The decision by the United States and the six Western European countries who make up the London Gold Pool to freeze their monetary gold stocks out of the reach of private speculators should effectively cool the gold fever for the time being.

Though there are doubts about how well the two-price system can work over the long run, by treating the immediate symptom it has bought a little time in which the basic causes of the malady can be attended to.

The two chief cures recommended by the fiscal physicians are not palatable. They include an immediate tax increase—at least the 10 per cent surcharge requested by President Johnson last fall and possibly more—coupled with a drastic reduction in government spending that will hit everybody's favorite project.

The lesson is clear: The United States may be strong—strong enough to do just about what it wants, including the waging of a war in the jungles and cities of a nation 10,000 miles away while at the same time attempting the refurbishing of its own countryside and urban centers—but that strength cannot be employed indefinitely without the exercise of the most stringent fiscal discipline.

One way or another, we must pay for what we buy.

It is a sobering lesson to Americans who have been riding a generally buoyant tide of prosperity for at least 25 years, if the war years are included, and in almost every one of those years racking up new and higher federal deficits.

It ought to be a particularly sobering lesson to the politicians who must give an accounting to the American people this election year.

Conservative Gains

The annual compilation of congressional voting records shows that conservative members of the two major parties would control the House of Representatives given 26 more members and the Senate with 21 more. The gains in the two houses brought the number of conservatives to 197 House members and 30 Senators.

Members who voted conservatively on a list of test measures last year among the 435 members of the House rose from an average of 38.9 per cent to 48.4 per cent. The 100 Senators were much more liberal. The average conservative score there rose from 38.4 per cent to 39.8 per cent.

Ratings were made by Americans for Constitutional Action. Legislators were rated on their vote on 28 Senate or 29 House votes. To win the acclaim of ACA, a member must have scored 65 per cent or better in his vote. The organization aids conservative-minded legislators, not with money gifts, but services in the form of advertising, public relations or organizational help for campaigning.

Having brought the House to close control, the ACA is shifting its emphasis to the Senate. The group wants a conservative Congress, to reflect the changing mood of the times, especially on taxation and government spending. Its liberal competitor, Americans for Democratic Action, has been impotent recently because of internal quarreling over policy to combat the conservative trend.

Having passed up its most attractive prospects for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senator to oppose Republican Everett M. Dirksen, the Illinois state ticket will be strengthened by an adroit move by President Johnson. He has named Gov. Otto Kerner to the U.S. Court of Appeals. His departure will allow Lieut. Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro, the Democratic nominee, six months as Governor and the publicity and public exposure in that office.

The Iceman Cometh

David Lawrence Says

New Style of Warfare Is Needed in Vietnam

WASHINGTON — "Intensive review" is the key phrase here concerning the future of the Vietnam war. It doesn't mean escalation into a larger war either. It is simply a penetrating study as to how the United States can secure its objectives in the most effective manner and with the least loss of life.

Obviously a change of strategy is contemplated. The transfer of General Westmoreland recently announced, however, is not because in any respect he has failed. It is due primarily to the need for a new style of warfare which will require a different type of commander as well as a change in the distribution of America's manpower in South Vietnam.

Basically the last year has proved that the traditional type of war — bombing the enemy constantly and organizing a massive military apparatus — does not secure the safety of the small villages where the Viet Cong revolutionaries have taken over large parts of the countryside.

The South Vietnamese Government is perplexed because it is unfamiliar with military techniques and is not experienced in how to deal with the damaging effects of communist penetration.

As military men discuss the future, they agree that a way must be devised to fight a "revolutionary war." This includes a struggle against infiltration by the Communists and their use of stooges and agents to terrorize the people and undermine South Vietnamese authority in local areas. Also, because of the lack of civilian discipline, the Saigon government has failed to deal effectively with corruption and fraud in the handling of military supplies.

What the United States is up against in Vietnam is better understood now than it was two years ago. Forthcoming plans undoubtedly will call for an improvement in the tactics hitherto used.

What may be looked for is not necessarily an appreciable increase in manpower. In the long run, it could even be reduced. But over the next two or three years the United States will try to better conditions inside South Vietnam and will not be building up concentrations of troops.

More pressure will be exerted of course, on the South Vietnamese government itself to increase its military strength in a substantial way. Even if the American forces did win victories in large-scale offensives, this would not solve the problem. For if American troops were then withdrawn and the situation left to a weak and inefficient government in South Vietnam, a Communist take-over would be rapid, and all the effort of these last two years would have been in vain.

The "intensive review" is naturally conducted in secret. Conferences are going on in Saigon and Washington. The hope is that before long a strategy will be developed which will permit the United States not only to reduce its forces in South Vietnam but to maintain its supply lines as well as to keep enough officers and men on hand to train a native army. In a nutshell, the United States now is likely to put much of its effort into a strengthening of the South Vietnamese government so that its military forces will be able to resist the North Vietnamese and eventually drive them out of the many villages in which they have planted groups of Communist-trained agents.

The United States government is reappraising the situation not only because Orthodox military methods have not as yet succeeded, but because the problem of what is called "revolutionary war" is at last being examined in true perspective. The underlying American purpose today is to strengthen South Vietnam just as South Korea was bolstered and supported so that it could maintain its own defenses against North Korea.

Undoubtedly a constructive policy, once explained to the American people, would clear up many of the current misunderstandings. The important fact to be borne in mind, however, is that the United States will not abandon South Vietnam. Preparations will be made to pull out the bulk of American troops next year or the year after, but only when the South Vietnamese, supported with the aid of American funds and supplies and with the help of Southeast Asian allies, are able to defend themselves against aggression.

Drew Pearson Says Bob Kennedy's Brother-in-Law Follows Pro-Johnson Course

EXIT WESTMORELAND
The transfer of Gen. William Westmoreland from Saigon, announced last week, was no news to Washington-Merry-Go-Round readers.

On Jan. 20, 1967, Jack Anderson reported in detail on differences between Secretary McNamara and Westmoreland. On Nov. 13, Drew Pearson and Anderson reported: "McNamara is expected to replace Westmoreland with Gen. Creighton Abrams."

Finally, on Feb. 5, 1968, Pearson reported that the heat was on once again to relieve Westmoreland with Abrams. The decision was finally announced at White House on March 22.

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: BOBBY KENNEDY'S BROTHER-IN-LAW FOLLOWS PRO-JOHNSON COURSE: CLARK CLIFFORD CAST FINAL VOTE ON WESTMORELAND'S RECALL: PRESIDENT OF OLD-EST AFRICAN REPUBLIC VISITS USA

WASHINGTON — Bobby Kennedy didn't know it, but before President Johnson announced the appointment of Sargent Shriver as ambassador to France he had Secretary of State Rusk track down Shriver to make sure he still wanted the job. For during the interval between submitting Shriver's name to President de Gaulle and getting De Gaulle's OK, Shriver's brother-in-law had announced for President.

Naturally, the question came up at the White House: Would Shriver go with Bobby Kennedy or stay with Lyndon Johnson?

Kennedy family ties are very strong. Shriver is happily married to Bobby's eldest sister. So Secretary Rusk got Shriver on the transatlantic telephone in Madrid, where he was vacationing. Shriver didn't hesitate. He still wanted to serve in the Johnson administration as ambassador to France.

One Kennedy Maverick

When Sargent Shriver first came to Washington in 1961 to organize the Peace Corps, the immediate Washington reaction was "nepotism." The second reaction was "star-dreams." Here was the brother-in-law of the new President, who was going to organize young people to go abroad and help other people. Blase Washington said it wouldn't work.

There has been too much love lost between the two brothers-in-law since. The President of the oldest and most stable black republic of Africa, William Tubman of Liberia, is famous for two things—his ability to get re-

Nevertheless it became one of the most notable achievements of the Kennedy administration, and Shriver became one of the most headlined executives.

Incidentally he won his first claim to success—not by marrying the eldest Kennedy daughter—but by managing the then biggest office building in the world, the Merchandise Mart in Chicago, which old Joe Kennedy had acquired as a real estate speculation and had to rent office space in it or go broke.

It was five years after Shriver made a success of renting the Merchandise Mart that he married Eunice Kennedy and became a member of the Kennedy clan.

However, he has not been a subservient member. Neither has his wife. Last December when the Bobby Kennedys were preparing to leave for Aspen, Colo., for their annual skiing vacation, Bobby's wife Ethel urged Eunice to come along.

"I am spending Christmas with father," replied Mrs. Shriver, referring to the patriarch of the Kennedy family, now an invalid.

"Why don't you come out on the 26th?" Ethel suggested. "The day after Christmas!" said Eunice. "That would look as if I were in a hurry to leave."

Bobby and the Buzz Saw

After the assassination, when Bobby's bitterness boiled toward the new President, Shriver tried to act as peace maker. He failed. "I found it was a buzz saw," he told a friend, "and I have stayed out."

In 1964, when Johnson was preparing to run for re-election, he seriously considered Shriver as his Vice Presidential running mate. But he got a curt message from sources very close to his brother-in-law. It said that the only reason Shriver was being considered was because he was married to a Kennedy. If there was going to be a Kennedy on the ticket, the message said, it was going to be a whole Kennedy, not a half.

There hasn't been too much love lost between the two brothers-in-law since.

President Tubman Dances

The President of the oldest and most stable black republic of Africa, William Tubman of Liberia, is famous for two things—his ability to get re-

ected and his ability to stay up all night dancing.

Here in Washington on his current visit, President Tubman is sedate and dignified. But when he gets going on one of his own parties back in Monrovia, he can cakewalk with the youngest, leads the band himself and stays up until 5 a.m., doing the Twist. Foreign ambassadors, such as blue-blooded Henry Cabot Lodge of Boston, have tried on occasion to leave his parties at 2 a.m., but President Tubman says no.

"The party isn't over yet," he says, wearing a high top hat and smoking a long cigar. So they dance on. Liberia, founded by American slaves from Maryland before the Civil War, has experienced problems. But it has now settled down to being one of the most prosperous African countries—a sign of hope for the other republics who are still experiencing turbulent growing pains.

Inside the Pentagon

The transfer of Gen. William Westmoreland from Saigon was the first real decision made by the new Secretary of Defense, Clark Clifford. It was, of course, a mutual decision by him and LBJ. At first it was planned to have Westmoreland replace Admiral U. S. Grant Sharp, as Pacific Commander in Hawaii, where the weather is wonderful and the work not arduous. Westmoreland deserved a rest. Later it was figured that Chief of Staff of the Army looked more like a promotion.

Bob McNamara had been quite critical privately of Westmoreland when he was Secretary of Defense, but President Johnson was sold on him. After Westmoreland was caught by the Tet lunar offensive—and the surprise was worse than the public realized —LBJ came around to new Secretary Clifford's point of view. His successor, Gen. Creighton Abrams, has been doing what Westmoreland failed to do. He has trained South Vietnamese troops — a total of 135,000, now ready for battle. Abrams, former Deputy Chief of Staff of the Army, went to South Vietnam in 1967 under a plan to relieve Westmoreland, who had already completed his two-year normal hitch. West's popularity with Congress and with LBJ caused a reversal of signals.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Good Government in Virginia

RICHMOND, Va.—The 1968 session of the honored Commonwealth of Virginia's General Assembly has closed here. And all who fear that good government is no longer possible in our land have a right to be encouraged.

The secret, of course, is in these men themselves and their Republican rivals. The same old story: in a government the people running it are more important than the machinery. It is a mark of distinction to be elected to the General Assembly in Virginia. The character and caliber of the people's representatives is high: stumblebums, self-serving stealers and political hacks have a hard time making the grade. In fact, to be brief, they seldom make it.

The Governor, Mills E. Godwin Jr., 53, is able, forthright, honest, energetic and fair. His eyes are fixed exclusively on the job he has, and he has chosen similarly conscientious men for his Cabinet.

Why should that be so rare in a government in our great country?

The premises of men like this are sound. They propose as few laws as possible—not as many. They realize a government cannot provide a better life; it can only provide the conditions for it. And they show that they know they are spending other people's money, not their own.

They adhere to fundamentals — the absolutely interwoven problem of democracy, due process, majority rule and the interplay between rights and duties.

They know that the problems of fairness to minorities and equal fairness to the silent majority goes on forever. The question of how a majority should treat a minority is fundamental in a free society. But so is the question of how a minority—an economic, ethnic or any other kind of minority—should treat the majority. These who legislate here know that government by pressure groups is the least democratic government of all. Government by special blocs, loud and howling, is not American democracy.

These are Jeffersonian concepts, precisely. There is another Thomas Jefferson's seal appears on the mace of the University of Virginia, of which he is the father. It bears the quotation: "Rebellion to tyrants is obedience to God." The spirit of freedom under God still runs strong in this state. There's not much enthusiasm around here for the draft-card burners.

We should take heart in these Jeffersonian Democrats. The General Assembly met only in its 60-day session. Yet its finished its business right on the dot. The committees, you see, had properly done most of their investigating and their work ahead of time. The Governor, in turn, was ready.

The General Assembly passed a $3.12 billion budget, carefully reviewed and, in fact, $10 million more than Governor Godwin asked.

It provided funds for more kindergartens, for 1,700 additional teachers and for increased per-pupil state aid and approved a bond issue referendum designed to further benefit higher education. It made available $610 million for highway construction more than 29 miles a day. It passed laws to get "habitual offenders" off the highways and for mandatory eye examinations when driving licenses are renewed every four years.

The session implemented the Metropolitan Areas Study

Commission's urban proposals and it created a commission of distinguished Virginians to buttress the state's election laws.

It passed a strong and eminently fair riot control law for the citizens' protection and also made more funds available for welfare and public health.

All this was done without a major tax boost, for the Governor held to his election campaign promise that he would not ask for a major increase in taxation. In short, blessings be the man at the top in this state was as good as his word.

When arrogant upstarts and publicity seeking windbags like Arthur Schlesinger Jr. and J. Kenneth Galbraith claim that to use little Schlesinger's words, "Jefferson's theories are out of date and no longer useful," we can thank such opportunistic thieves of the Democratic party label for many of the troubles and perils in our country today. When such pseudo-liberals and setback intellectuals pretend to out-think Thomas Jefferson, the pygmies are at a pole vault.

Peace Leaders to Demonstrate At Democratic Convention

By BASIL TALBOTT JR. and FRANCIS WARD

Chicago Sun-Times Special Chicago — National leaders of the Peace Movement attended a weekend summit conference near Chicago affirming plans for demonstrations at the Democratic National Convention in August, it was learned yesterday.

However, the some 250 participants in the strategy session at Lake Villa, Ill., deferred until a second meeting in June decisions on the tactics they will use.

The conference also endorsed a Black Liberation platform voted by Negroes meeting separately Saturday. Three key figures in the Lake Villa conference were named to assist in the formation of a national campaign committee that will carry out a summer-long program voted by the group.

The program stresses local organization across the nation to underscore dissonance against the Vietnam War and what the groups contend are insufficient domestic programs of the Johnson administration.

"We have decided to focus on issues rather than candidates," said Rennie Davis, one of the men named to head the National Campaign Committee.

"We want to work in such a way that clearly separates us from the electoral candidates and makes us relevant to the political energy they have released," said Davis.

He was referring to the candidacies of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (D-N.Y.) and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn.), who have challenged

Mr. Johnson in several primaries.

Others named to the National Campaign Committee were David Dellinger, editor of Liberation magazine and leader of the Oct. 21 Anti-War March on the Pentagon, and Vernon Grizzard, organizer of Draft Resistance in Boston.

Included in their program will be efforts to step up draft resistance, challenges of delegates to the Democratic convention, organization in white working-class communities and support of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s poor peoples' campaign in Washington.

"Our program to work against racism will include development of strategies for white communities during black rebellions this summer," Davis said.

The groups hopes to form organizations to provide legal assistance and medical help for victims in riots, if they occur, he said.

The program arrived at a compromise between factions wanting to emphasize local organizing and others that pressed for a national demonstration in Chicago in August.

In six workshops Saturday, some participants expressed fears that a large-scale demonstration at the convention might "precipitate a blood bath." Others expressed the thought that a National Campaign might sap the energies of workers in local communities.

"But we felt that a lot of persons will come to Chicago whether or not we organized," said one member of a workshop.

"We felt that if the protest is not given direction from a sober group there might be uncontrolled demonstrations that would result in bloody scenes and public disapproval."

A third group present at Lake Villa, the Yippies, disdained plans for political action.

One blond Yippie told the session: "America is dead; you all know it, and yet you're getting involved in a dance with a dead lady."

"The Democratic party is going to foul you up. The only way you're going to change America is to involve people with their emotions, not their minds."

In its platform, the Black caucus, headed by Carlos Russel, decided not to endorse any presidential candidate but to support any efforts of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party.

The "intensive review" is naturally conducted in secret. Conferences are going on in Saigon and Washington. The hope is that before long a strategy will be developed which will permit the United States not only to reduce its forces in South Vietnam but to maintain its supply lines as well as to keep enough officers and men on hand to train a native army. In a nutshell, the United States now is likely to put much of its effort into a strengthening of the South Vietnamese government so that its military forces will be able to resist the North Vietnamese and eventually drive them out of the many villages in which they have planted groups of Communist-trained agents.

The United States government is reappraising the situation not only because Orthodox military methods have not as yet succeeded, but because the problem of what is called "revolutionary war" is at last being examined in true perspective. The underlying American purpose today is to strengthen South Vietnam just as South Korea was bolstered and supported so that it could maintain its own defenses against North Korea.

Undoubtedly a constructive policy, once explained to the American people, would clear up many of the current misunderstandings. The important fact to be borne in mind, however, is that the United States must not abandon South Vietnam. Preparations will be made to pull out the bulk of American troops next year and the year after, but only when the South Vietnamese, supported with the aid of American funds and supplies and with the help of Southeast Asian allies, are able to defend themselves against aggression.

Drew Pearson Says Bob Kennedy's Brother-in-Law Follows Pro-Johnson Course

EXIT WESTMORELAND
The transfer of Gen. William Westmoreland from Saigon, announced last week, was no news to Washington-Merry-Go-Round readers.

On Jan. 20, 1967, Jack Anderson reported in detail on differences between Secretary McNamara and Westmoreland. On Nov. 13, Drew Pearson and Anderson reported: "McNamara is expected to replace Westmoreland with Gen. Creighton Abrams."

Finally, on Feb. 5, 1968, Pearson reported that the heat was on once again to relieve Westmoreland with Abrams. The decision was finally announced at White House on March 22.

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: BOBBY KENNEDY'S BROTHER-IN-LAW FOLLOWS PRO-JOHNSON COURSE. CLARK CLIFFORD CAST FINAL VOTE ON WESTMORELAND'S RECALL: PRESIDENT OF OLD-EST AFRICAN REPUBLIC VISITS USA

WASHINGTON — Bobby Kennedy didn't know it, but before President Johnson announced the appointment of Sargent Shriver as ambassador to France he had Secretary of State Rusk track down Shriver to make sure he still wanted the job. For during the interval between submitting Shriver's name to President de Gaulle and getting De Gaulle's OK, Shriver's brother-in-law had announced for President.

Naturally, the question came up at the White House: Would Shriver go with Bobby Kennedy or stay with Lyndon Johnson?

Kennedy family ties are very strong. Shriver is happily married to Bobby's eldest sister. So Secretary Rusk got Shriver on the transatlantic telephone in Madrid, where he was vacationing. Shriver didn't hesitate. He still wanted to serve in the Johnson administration as ambassador to France.

One Kennedy Maverick
When Sargent Shriver first came to Washington in 1961 to organize the Peace Corps, the immediate Washington reaction was "ineptism." The second reaction was "stardom." Here was the brother-in-law of the new President, who was going to organize young people to go abroad and help other people. Blaise Washington said it wouldn't work.

Nevertheless it became one of the most notable achievements of the Kennedy administration, and Shriver became one of the most headlined executives.

Incidentally he won his first claim to success—not by marrying the eldest Kennedy daughter—but by managing the then biggest office building in the world, the Merchandise Mart in Chicago, which old Joe Kennedy had acquired as a real estate speculation and had to rent office space in it or go broke.

It was five years after Shriver made a success of renting the Merchandise Mart that he married Eunice Kennedy and became a member of the Kennedy clan.

However, he has not been a subservient member. Neither has his wife. Last December when the Bobby Kennedys were preparing to leave for Aspen, Colo., for their annual skiing vacation, Bobby's wife Ethel urged Eunice to come along.

"I am spending Christmas with father," replied Mrs. Shriver, referring to the patriarch of the Kennedy family, now an invalid.

"Why don't you come out on the 26th?" Ethel suggested. "The day after Christmas!" said Eunice. "That would look as if I were in a hurry to leave."

Bobby and the Buzz Saw
After the assassination, when Bobby's bitterness boiled toward the new President, Shriver tried to act as peace maker. He failed. "I found it was a buzz saw," he told a friend, "and I have stayed out."

In 1964, when Johnson was preparing to run for re-election, he seriously considered Shriver as his Vice Presidential running mate. But he got a curt message from sources very close to his brother-in-law. It said that the only reason Shriver was being considered was because he was married to a Kennedy. If there was going to be a Kennedy on the ticket, the message said, it was going to be a whole Kennedy, not a half.

There hasn't been too much love lost between the two brothers-in-law since.

President Tubman Dances
The president of the oldest and most stable black republic of Africa, William Tubman of Liberia, is famous for two things—his ability to get re-

ected and his ability to stay up all night dancing.

Here in Washington on his current visit, President Tubman is sedate and dignified. But when he gets going on one of his own parties back in Monrovia, he can cakewalk with the youngest, leads the band himself and stays up until 5 a.m., doing the Twist. Foreign ambassadors, such as blue-blooded Henry Cabot Lodge of Boston, have tried on occasion to leave his parties at 2 a.m., but President Tubman says no.

"The party isn't over yet," he says, wearing a high top hat and smoking a long cigar. So they dance on.

Liberia, founded by American slaves from Maryland before the Civil War, has experienced problems. But it has now settled down to being one of the most prosperous African countries—a sign of hope for the other republics who are still experiencing turbulent growing pains.

Inside the Pentagon

The transfer of Gen. William Westmoreland from Saigon was the first real decision made by the new Secretary of Defense, Clark Clifford. It was, of course, a mutual decision by him and LBJ. At first it was planned to have Westmoreland replace Admiral U. S. Grant Sharp, as Pacific Commander in Hawaii, where the weather is wonderful and the work not arduous. Westmoreland deserved a rest. Later it was figured that Chief of Staff of the Army looked more like a promotion.

Bob McNamara had been quite critical privately of Westmoreland when he was Secretary of Defense, but President Johnson was sold on him. After Westmoreland was caught by the Tet lunar offensive—and the surprise was worse than the public realized—LBJ came around to new Secretary Clifford's point of view. His successor, Gen. Creighton Abrams, has been doing what Westmoreland failed to do. He has trained South Vietnamese troops—a total of 135,000, now ready for battle. Abrams, former Deputy Chief of Staff of the Army, went to South Vietnam in 1967 under a plan to relieve Westmoreland, who had already completed his two-year normal hitch. Westy's popularity with Congress and with LBJ caused a reversal of signals.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Good Government in Virginia

RICHMOND, Va.—The 1968 session of the honored Commonwealth of Virginia's General Assembly has closed here. And all who fear that good government is no longer possible in our land have a right to be encouraged.

The secret, of course, is in these men themselves and their Republican rivals. The same old story: in a government the people running it are more important than the machinery. It is a mark of distinction to be elected to the General Assembly in Virginia. The character and caliber of the people's representatives is high: stumblebums, self-serving stealers and political hacks have a hard time making the grade. In fact, to be brief, they seldom make it.

The Governor, Mills E. Godwin Jr., 53, is able, forthright, honest, energetic and fair. His eyes are fixed exclusively on the job he has, and he has chosen similarly conscientious men for his Cabinet.

Why should that be so rare in a government in our great country?

The premises of men like this are sound. They propose as few laws as possible—not as many. They realize a government cannot provide a better life; it can only provide the conditions for it. And they show that they know they are spending other people's money, not their own.

They adhere to fundamentals — the absolutely interwoven problem of democracy, due process, majority rule and the interplay between rights and duties.

They know that the problems of fairness to minorities and equal fairness to the silent majority goes on forever. The question of how a majority should treat a minority is fundamental in a free society. But so is the question of how a minority—an economic, ethnic or any other kind of minority—should treat the majority. These are the problems that government by pressure groups is the least democratic government of all. Government by special blocs, loud and howling, is not American democracy.

These are Jeffersonian concepts, precisely. There is another. Thomas Jefferson's seal appears on the mace of the University of Virginia, of which he is the father. It bears the quotation: "Rebellion to tyrants is obedience to God." The spirit of freedom under God still runs strong in this state. There's not much enthusiasm around here for the draft-card burners.

We should take heart in these Jeffersonian Democrats. The General Assembly met only in its 60-day session. Yet it finished its business right on the dot. The committees, you see, had properly done most of their investigating and their work ahead of time. The Governor, in turn, was ready.

The General Assembly passed a $3.12 billion budget, carefully reviewed and, in fact, $10 million more than Governor Godwin asked.

It provided funds for more kindergartens, for 1,700 additional teachers and for increased per pupil state aid and approved a bond issue referendum designed to further benefit higher education.

It made available $610 million for highway construction more than 29 miles a day. It passed laws to get "habitual offenders" off the highways and for mandatory eye examinations when driving licenses are renewed every four years.

The session implemented the Metropolitan Areas Study

Commission's urban proposals and it created a commission of distinguished Virginians to buttress the state's election laws.

It passed a strong and eminently fair riot control law for the citizens' protection and also made more funds available for welfare and public health.

All this was done without a major tax boost, for the Governor held to his election campaign promise that he would not ask for a major increase in taxation. In short, blessings be the man at the top in this state was as good as his word.

When arrogant upstarts and publicity seeking windbags like Arthur Schlesinger Jr. and J. Kenneth Galbraith claim that, to use little Schlesinger's words, "Jefferson's theories are out of date and no longer useful," we can thank such opportunistic thieves of the Democratic party label for many of the troubles and perils in our country today. When such pseudo-liberals and wetback intellectuals pretend to out-think Thomas Jefferson, the pygmies are at a pole vault.

Peace Leaders to Demonstrate At Democratic Convention

By BASIL TALBOTT JR. and FRANCIS WARD
Chicago Sun-Times Special

CHICAGO — National leaders of the Peace Movement attended a weekend summit conference near Chicago affirming plans for demonstrations at the Democratic National Convention in August, it was learned yesterday.

However, the some 250 participants in the strategy session at Lake Villa, Ill., deferred until a second meeting in June decisions on the tactics they will use.

The conference also endorsed a Black Liberation platform voted by Negroes meeting separately Saturday.

Three key figures in the Lake Villa conference were named to assist in the formation of a national campaign committee that will carry out a summer-long program voted by the group.

The program stresses local organization across the nation to underscore dissension against the Vietnam War and what the groups contend are insufficient domestic programs of the Johnson administration.

"We have decided to focus on issues rather than candidates," said Rennie Davis, one of the men named to head the National Campaign Committee.

"We want to work in such a way that clearly separates us from the electoral candidates and makes us relevant to the political energy they have released," said Davis.

He was referring to the candidacies of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (D-N.Y.) and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn.), who have challenged

Mr. Johnson in several primaries.

Others named to the National Campaign Committee were David Dellinger, editor of Liberation magazine and leader of the Oct. 21 Anti-War March on the Pentagon, and Vernon Grizzard, organizer of Draft Resistance in Boston.

Included in their program will be efforts to step up draft resistance, challenges of delegates to the Democratic convention, organization in white working-class communities and support of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s poor peoples' campaign in Washington.

"Our program to work against racism will include development of strategies for white communities during black rebellions this summer," Davis said.

The groups hopes to form organizations to provide local gal assistance and medical help for victims in riots, if they occur, he said.

The program arrived at was compromise between factions wanting to emphasize local organizing and others that pressed for a national demonstration in Chicago in August.

In six workshops Saturday, some participants expressed fears that a large-scale demonstration at the convention might "precipitate a blood bath." Others expressed the thought that a National Campaign might sap the energies of workers in local communities.

"But we felt that a lot of persons will come to Chicago whether or not we organized," said one member of a workshop.

"We felt that if the protest is not given direction from a sober group there might be uncontrolled demonstrations that would result in bloody scenes and public disapproval."

A third group present at Lake Villa, the Yippies, disdained plans for political action.

One blond Yippie told the session: "America is dead; you all know it, and yet you're getting involved in a dance with a dead lady."

"The Democratic party is going to foul you up. The only way you're going to change America is to involve people with their emotions, not their minds."

In its platform, the Black caucus, headed by Carlos Russel, decided not to endorse any presidential candidate but to support any efforts of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party.

I was flabbergasted to hear on the radio, March 19th, how far we seem to be going as a nation in undermining our military staff and fighting men in South Vietnam.

The statements by Senator Robert Kennedy at a university in Kansas, and by Mayor Lindsay at a university in New York City, only compound our problems in Vietnam—not solve them.

It was reported that Hanoi announced that they aren't interested in a peace talk (if they ever were) even if the bombing stopped, because of the tenor of our changing political scene. And then to hear, on the same announcement, that the Communist party expects to run a candidate in the coming presidential election! I am sickened by the thought of it. It is an affront to our men dying in South Vietnam.

I listened to Mr. Matzen's recent lecture in Kingston on the subject of Vietnam. He had little to say for our Government's reasons for being in the war, this to me was unfortunate. It is hard for me to believe that our Government did not have good reasons for intervening in the Vietnam situation. Mr. Matzen said, "We should be working with Russia," and he referenced the "equilibrium" between the West and East, and that "Russia has realized this equilibrium and the terrific cost to the American people to accomplish this deadlock, and the cost in lives of people fleeing the Iron Curtain."

These were good statements by Mr. Matzen, but how does he advocate a better working relationship with Russia? If he has the answer, I am sure most of our country's problems would be solved. Our Government has "bent over backward" in every way possible to work with Russia on disarmament and the affairs of State; for ways that might lead to greater security and peace for all.

I have heard nothing from the "peace groups" in the way of pleas to Russia and North Vietnam, for them to make even a small bonafide overture for a meeting toward a settlement of the war effort. How can this group of American citizens only proclaim to the U.S. Government to end bombing, regardless of cost, without at the same time proclaim to Russia and North Vietnam to at least make a token effort toward helping to set up a meeting at a conference table?

Mr. Matzen said also, that "the United States and Russia have no quarrel," and that, "we must convene another Geneva Conference." How does Mr. Matzen propose that this conference be convened? What has he to say to Russia and to North Vietnam that will help bring this about?

In October 1966, the Manila Summit Conference, which President Johnson attended, answered the Geneva question by the first two points of the U.S. FOURTEEN POINTS—proposal for peace negotiations:

1. The Geneva Agreements of 1954 and 1962 are an adequate basis for peace in Southeast Asia.

2. We would welcome a conference on Southeast Asia or any part thereof; and we will support a reconvening of the Geneva Conference, or an Asian conference, or any other generally acceptable forum.

I believe our problems can be and are being solved by the Congress and the President working together in an intelligent constructive manner.

We as Americans should give them moral support, and not give aid and comfort to the enemy.

It is in times such as this, that we as individuals should assess our own loyalty to our country. It is time that we stop reviewing past history, and what may have been bad decisions (in retrospect). We must ask ourselves, what is the most practical course that our Government should take now?

I am sure that Mr. Matzen, as a student of government, has many things he could say on the positive side of America's involvement in Vietnam. I would consider it a privilege to listen to one of his lectures on this aspect of the subject.

Very truly yours,

"Old Rip" should verify information published in his column before making use of it. The following information given in his column of March 6, 1968 is erroneous. The allocation for Ulster County Bounties on red and grey foxes and bobcats, for the year 1968, was not for the sum of $1100. The year's allocation was for the sum of $1000. Since this happened to be one of the minor errors, more easily overlooked, in the article published by the Kingston Daily Freeman, February 28, 1968, on bounties, it was overlooked, with only the more glaring errors corrected. Actually, the extra $100, wrongly included in the year's bounties allocation, probably referred to administrative expenses incurred by the bounties in the County Auditor's office. An estimate given by the office lists the actual round figure of administrative expenses for this item as $250.

The petition with signatures of almost 1100 petitioners for a hearing on the plight of the raccoon species in this district with the State Conservation Department, originated through Raccoon Refugees-at-Large Group of this County, and has been four years in operation. This seems to have become confused with the work the group has been doing concerning the county bounties. However, the raccoon has many protectors and admirers who provide them with sanctuary and food during this bad time through which it is feared they will become exterminated, or at least endangered in the district.

There was too much confusion and misunderstanding relative to inconsequential matters in connection with the resolution to remove county bounties on any animal. Correction of these confusions are underway in the local press, and the resolution is to be entered again within the immediate future. Then the public and the legislators will have a clearer understanding of the character and intelligence of those hunters in the district who are self-appointed and seem to believe they are official representatives of the views of true district sportsmen concerning "pest lists" and county bounties on any game animals.

Democratic Convention
Editor, The Freeman:

The Democratic convention held last Saturday in Kingston exhibited such a flagrant and gratuitous breach of basic parliamentary etiquette that both comment and apologies are very much in order. I refer, of course, to the stifling of the anti-Johnson delegates from New Paltz.

Dr. Gorman, the convention chairman, was guilty of two serious lapses of chairmanship responsibility: first, he deliberately altered the much publicized rigidity of the agenda in an effort to attend to the nominations for national convention delegates at a time when the potentially dissident New Paltz and Woodstock delegations were not all present (and were certainly least prepared). He interrupted the state committeemen nominations for this other matter and called hurriedly for national delegate nominations.

Here Dr. Gorman committed his second breach of chairmanly etiquette: after the briefest nominations and seconds of the day, he called for the closing of nominations immediately, in the face of an obvious clamor for further nominations from the New Paltz delegation. In fact, Dr. John Hain, the person to present the anti-Johnson delegate nominations, approached the chair's microphone and was told by Dr. Gorman that he would be given an opportunity to speak next; Dr. Gorman then, in the best Machiavellian tradition, proceeded to close nominations, leaving Dr. Hain and the New Paltz delegation with no opportunity to present nominations.

In the hub-hub that followed, Dr. Gorman called for a resolution supporting the chair's contention that further nominations had been called for and that he was in order in accepting the call to close nominations. A stand-up vote supported the chair in this move.

Thus, a minority of duly-constituted and elected delegates were thwarted, in a rather underhanded manner, in their intentions merely to present nominations to the convention. Possibly such nominees would have been defeated in the final convention vote, but the normal, fair-minded opportunity to place the names in nomination — this was denied them by the deliberate machinations of the chair with the acquiescence of the smug pro-Johnson majority.

Very clearly Dr. Gorman owes a deep apology to Dr. John Hain and the other delegates who were railroaded out of chance to exercise one of the fundamental rights of parliamentary constituency: the right to nominate from the floor. Dr. Gorman and his pro-Johnson majority ruled the convention last Saturday; they will be able to gloat, perhaps, to their cohorts about the way they put the upstarts down. But they paid dearly in self-respect—their self-respect and the self-respect of Democrats all over the Congressional district—for their small-minded and undemocratic maneuvers. What they did was as unnecessary as it was unethical.

Dr. Gorman will be remembered for some time, among Democrats of any conscience, as an unscrupulous man. The least he can do under the circumstances is to make a public apology.

With deep regret in the face of this matter,

Editor, The Freeman:

I would like to commend you for your lead editorial in Wednesday's Freeman. I hope that it marks the beginning of a stand against the Administration's policies in Vietnam.

I do disagree with one point of your editorial. The Johnson Administration—the political arm of the Green Berets—does listen to advice, providing that it calls for escalation. Johnson has followed the Vietnam policies of Goldwater after campaigning against them!

As an alternative to the Administration's present course in Vietnam I recommend the withdrawal of all foreign military forces. I hope that you will agree with this in the near future.

Sincerely,
RONALD SOBIERAJ

The allocation for Ulster County Bounties on red and grey foxes and bobcats, for the year 1968, was not for the sum of $1100. The year's allocation was for the sum of $1000. Since this happened to be one of the minor errors, more easily overlooked, in the article published by the Kingston Daily Freeman, February 28, 1968, on bounties, it was overlooked, with only the more glaring errors corrected. Actually, the extra $100, wrongly included in the year's bounties allocation, probably referred to administrative expenses incurred by the bounties in the County Auditor's office. An estimate given by the office lists the actual round figure of administrative expenses for this item as $250.

The petition with signatures of almost 1100 petitioners for a hearing on the plight of the raccoon species in this district with the State Conservation Department, originated through Raccoon Refugees-at-Large Group of this County, and has been four years in operation. This seems to have become confused with the work the group has been doing concerning the county bounties. However, the raccoon has many protectors and admirers who provide them with sanctuary and food during this bad time through which it is feared they will become exterminated, or at least endangered in the district.

There was too much confusion and misunderstanding relative to inconsequential matters in connection with the resolution to remove county bounties on any animal. Correction of these confusions are underway in the local press, and the resolution is to be entered again within the immediate future. Then the public and the legislators will have a clearer understanding of the character and intelligence of those hunters in the district who are self-appointed and seem to believe they are official representatives of the views of true district sportsmen concerning "pest lists" and county bounties on any game animals.

The Democratic convention held last Saturday in Kingston exhibited such a flagrant and gratuitous breach of basic parliamentary etiquette that both comment and apologies are very much in order. I refer, of course, to the stifling of the anti-Johnson delegates from New Paltz.

Dr. Gorman, the convention chairman, was guilty of two serious lapses of chairmanship responsibility: first, he deliberately altered the much publicized rigidity of the agenda in an effort to attend to the nominations for national convention delegates at a time when the potentially dissenting New Paltz and Woodstock delegations were not all present (and were certainly least prepared). He interrupted the state committeeman nominations for this other matter and called hurriedly for national delegate nominations.

Here Dr. Gorman committed his second breach of chairmanship etiquette: after the briefest nominations and seconds of the day, he called for the closing of nominations immediately, in the face of an obvious clamor for further nominations from the New Paltz delegation. In fact, Dr. John Hain, the person to present the anti-Johnson delegate nominations, approached the chair's microphone and was told by Dr. Gorman that he would be given an opportunity to speak next; Dr. Gorman then, in the best Machiavellian tradition, proceeded to close nominations, leaving Dr. Hain and the New Paltz delegation with no opportunity to present nominations.

In the hub-hub that followed, Dr. Gorman called for a resolution supporting the chair's contention that further nominations had been called for and that he was in order in accepting the call to close nominations. A stand-up vote supported the chair in this move.

Thus, a minority of duly-constituted and elected delegates were thwarted, in a rather underhanded manner, in their intentions merely to present nominations to the convention. Possibly such nominees would have been defeated in the final convention vote, but the normal, fair-minded opportunity to place the names in nomination — this was denied them by the deliberate machinations of the chair with the acquiescence of the smug pro-Johnson majority.

Very clearly Dr. Gorman owes a deep apology to Dr. John Hain and the other delegates who were railroaded out of chance to exercise one of the fundamental rights of parliamentary constituency: the right to nominate from the floor. Dr. Gorman and his pro-Johnson majority ruled the convention last Saturday; they will be able to gloat, perhaps, to their cohorts about the way they put the upstarts down. But they paid dearly in self-respect—their self-respect and the self-respect of Democrats all over the Congressional district—for their small-minded and undemocratic maneuvers. What they did was as unnecessary as it was unethical.

Dr. Gorman will be remembered for some time, among Democrats of any conscience, as an unscrupulous man. The least he can do under the circumstances is to make a public apology.

With deep regret in the face of this matter,

Editor, The Freeman

I would like to commend you for your lead editorial in Wednesday's Freeman. I hope that it marks the beginning of a stand against the Administration's policies in Vietnam.

I do disagree with one point of your editorial. The Johnson Administration — the political arm of the Green Berets — does listen to advice, providing that it calls for escalation. Johnson has followed the Vietnam policies of Goldwater after ca-paigning against them!

As an alternative to the Administration's present course in Vietnam I recommend the withdrawal of all foreign military forces. I hope that you will agree with this in the near future.

Sincerely,
RONALD SOBIERAJ

TIMELY QUOTES

I believe the young today, both black and white, are learning to regard as natural the equality which many of the rest of us see only as logical.

—McGeorge Bundy, president of the Ford Foundation and former special assistant to President Johnson, discussing prejudice.

We are stalemated in Vietnam as we were in Korea 15 years ago. We must take the action we took then; seize the initiative to reach a compromise solution—without military victory but also without defeat. And never, never again should we commit a ground army on the mainland of Asia.

Three Dem Candidates In Indiana Primary

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Kennedy's backers, certain Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's entry today into the May 7 Indiana presidential primary sets up the first primary test involving him with Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and a stand-in for President Johnson.

Richard M. Nixon will run alone on the Republican ballot. Representatives of Indiana Gov. Roger D. Branigin, who agreed to represent Johnson in the primary, and McCarthy also were scheduled to file their candidacies before the midnight deadline.

Kennedy's backers, certain that he would run even before he announced the decision Wednesday in Salt Lake City, had the needed petitions ready to enter his name on the ballot. Nixon's Indiana supporters put his name on the ballot Wednesday, filing more than the required 500 certified signatures of registered voters from each of the 11 congressional districts. Kennedy and his political strategists made the decision to enter the Indiana primary Wednesday—the day before the filing deadline. He also is entered in California and Oregon, where he already has campaigned, and Nebraska, where he makes his first stop as a candidate today to speak at still another college—the University of Nebraska.

Shortly after disclosing his decision, Kennedy ignored the advice of Salt Lake City's police chief to cancel a speech to an overflow rally crowd because of an anonymous telephoned bomb threat.

Striding to the platform, he quipped: "This is what you call opening your campaign with a bang." There were 5,000 in the building, and an estimated 2,500 in the street outside.

In Indiana, Kennedy nominating petitions circulated in a drive led by C. Michael Riley, Indianapolis lawyer and Indiana Young Democrat president.

The McCarthy entry was backed by Hoosiers for a Democratic alternative, and also had produced more than enough voter names.

Robert A. Fangmeier, HDA chairman in Indianapolis, said about 20 McCarthy campaign staff members would be in Indiana April 9 to stay at least five days, possibly nine if Kennedy entered.

Fangmeier said 20,000 to 30,000 college students, many from other states, would be available as weekend campaign helpers after the April 2 Wisconsin primary.

Chichester Man Hurt in Crash

Anthony Kirk, 68, of Chichester, was injured at 12:40 p.m. Wednesday when his car went out of control on Glasco Turnpike near Rock City Road and hit a tree. Trooper Robert Malloy said the vehicle was traveling south on the turnpike and attempting a turn into Rock City Road at the time of the mishap.

Kirk was treated at Benedictine Hospital for lacerations of the upper lip and possible chest injuries.

At 9:05 p.m. yesterday cars driven by Nestor Ralis, 63, of 37 Franklin Street, Kingston, and Robert D. Johnson, 18, of Stone Ridge, were involved in a collision on Route 9W about a half-mile south of Route 209 in the Town of Ulster.

Trooper E. A. Zeboris of Kingston cited Johnson for failure to yield the right of way. The summons is returnable later before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly. Troopers reported Ralis was driving south on Route 9W and Johnson was traveling north and attempting a left turn to go west when the mishap occurred. There were no injuries reported.

Killed in Collision
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A 14-year-old boy was killed Tuesday in the collision of two automobiles on Route 9 in suburban Loudonville.

State Police identified the youth as William F. Hughes of Albany.

NO DOUBT — Samuel Hammons (top) and Albert A. Ricci are shown here in recent photos. According to Lorrain County, Ohio, Coroner Paul Kopsch on Wednesday a written report from the FBI "leaves no doubt" that Hammons, 44, of Avon, Ohio, was slain in his home Feb. 24 by a bomb constructed and shipped by Ricci, 53, of Petaluma, Calif. Ricci, a former bank executive, was killed by drowning March 8 when his car ran off a highway and landed in a cattle pond. The two men were rivals in an extramarital affair involving an unnamed woman. Hammons had been employed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Professor Fined
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — An assistant mathematics professor at the State University of Albany unit has been fined $50 for his part in a sit-in demonstration last month against the Dow Chemical Co.

Dr. James N. Whitney, 31, of Cambridge, Mass., was found guilty Tuesday of disorderly conduct by Judge Michael V. Tepedino of Police Court.

Whitney was one of 10 arrested Feb. 21 during a demonstration on the Albany campus against Dow, manufacturers of napalm used in the Vietnam war.

Jury Indicts Paltz Man, In Shootout

Winfield W. Moore, 31, of River Road, New Paltz, who was engaged in a shootout with state troopers late in December while leaving the Happy Hour Bar and Grill in Tillsen was indicted by the March grand jury late Wednesday.

He faces charges of burglary, third degree; criminal trespass, second and assault, second, three counts.

Troopers said Moore was armed with a shotgun when he allegedly broke into the tavern and notified state police that he entered the building and warned them that he was prepared to shoot it out. Moore was shot twice by trooper when he reportedly fired the shotgun point blank as a dozen troopers surrounded the tavern. Police bullets hit Moore in the leg and on the left side of the chest.

Also indicted was Ernest Petersen, 50, of this city, who at the time of his arrest January 8 was accused of smashing his way into the home of his estranged wife and reportedly wrecked all the furniture.

He was charged with criminal mischief, second degree.

At the time of Petersen's arrest, County Investigator Harold T. Bowers of the Sheriff's Office said Petersen's wife complained that her husband had broken through the rear door of her home on Groff Street and threatened her with bodily harm. Mrs. Petersen fled and called the sheriff's office.

The county investigator said Petersen allegedly smashed the television set and some of the furniture in the home.

Jury Indicts Paltz Man, In Shootout

Winfield W. Moore, 31, of River Road, New Paltz, who was engaged in a shootout with state troopers late in December while leaving the Happy Hour Bar and Grill in Tillson was indicted by the March grand jury late Wednesday.

He faces charges of burglary, third degree; criminal trespass, second and assault, second, three counts.

Troopers said Moore was armed with a shotgun when he allegedly broke into the tavern and notified state police that he entered the building and warned them that he was prepared to shoot it out. Moore was shot twice by trooper when he reportedly fired the shotgun point blank as a dozen troopers surrounded the tavern. Police bullets hit Moore in the leg and on the left side of the chest.

Also indicted was Ernest Petersen, 50 of this city, who at the time of his arrest January 8 was accused of smashing his way into the home of his estranged wife and reportedly wrecked all the furniture.

He was charged with criminal mischief, second degree. At the time of Petersen's arrest, County Investigator Harold T. Bowers of the Sheriff's Office said Petersen's wife complained that her husband had broken through the rear door of her home on Groff Street and threatened her with bodily harm. Mrs. Petersen fled and called the sheriff's office.

The county investigator said Petersen allegedly smashed the television set and some of the furniture in the home.

North-Central Section of City Different Under Reapportion

EDITOR'S NOTE: Today's installment deals with the north-central section of the city, formerly Wards Two, Three and Four. Under reapportionment they are now Wards Five, Six, Seven, Eight.

By HUGH REYNOLDS

With a stroke of the pen Alderman Robert Schantz had his huge Second Ward cut in half. The old Second Ward is now new Wards Five and Six with Republican Schantz who lives on Wrentham Street, now in the Sixth.

The map makers, under the leadership of Reapportionment Committee Chairman Edward Norton (D-Seventh Ward) had few problems with the Second Ward but such was not the case in the Third.

The old Third, another Republican stronghold, has been cut drastically in both population and area. Republican John Naccarato has won handsily in the ward for the past three terms but may be faced with a primary battle due to reapportionment this year. Frank Jablonski, the current Fourth Ward alderman now lives in the same ward (new Ward Eight) as Naccarato.

Wards Five and Seven will have new aldermen this year. Already, one name has appeared, that of Joseph Saccoman, city housing codes inspector, long time Democrat and an alderman in the 30's. Saccoman, if nominated, will run in Ward Five.

No one has been mentioned as a possible candidate in New Ward Seven though Alderman Joseph Epstein (D-old Seventh Ward) has a residence on Highland Avenue in that ward. Epstein's official residence, however, is 48 Broadway above his store. This would put him in new Ward 10.

The following is the official description of new Wards Five, Six, Seven and Eight.

Girl Burned While Watching Burning Leaves

While watching leaves burn in the back yard at her home in the Town of Plattekill at about 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, Evelyn Johnson, about three, was painfully burned when her clothing caught fire in the absence of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Johnson. Kingston State Police said Mrs. Johnson had been burning leaves in the yard and left to go into her home to watch other children. When she went outside again she saw her daughter's clothing in flames. She put out the fire and summoned help.

Trooper J. E. Hornbeck investigated and reported the girl was rushed to St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh and treated for second and third degree burns of the major portion of her entire body. The Johnsons reside on Hunt Road, Route 3, Wallkill, in the Town of Plattekill.

The hospital listed the child's condition as critical.

City police ticketed Parker for driving without a license, no registration and driving on the sidewalk.

Girl Burned While Watching Burning Leaves

While watching leaves burn in the back yard at her home in the Town of Platekill at about 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, Evelyn Johnson, about three, was painfully burned when her clothing caught fire in the absence of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Johnson.

Kingston State Police said Mrs. Johnson had been burning leaves in the yard and left to go into her home to watch other children. When she went outside again she saw her daughter's clothing in flames. She put out the fire and summoned help.

Trooper J. E. Hornbeck investigated and reported the girl was rushed to St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh and treated for second and third degree burns of the major portion of her entire body. The Johnson's reside on Hunt Road, Route 3, Walkill, in the Town of Platekill.

The hospital listed the child's condition as critical.

Sudden Stop

They just don't make cars the way they used to. Stephan F. Parker of RD 2, Box 28, Kingston found this out yesterday afternoon when he backed up his 1940 Chevrolet, put the brake pedal to the floor and slammed into a porch on 28 Liberty Street.

City police ticketed Parker for driving without a license, no registration and driving on the sidewalk.

LBJ Gaining Support From Southern States

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's entry into the Democratic nomination contest appears to have boosted President Johnson's delegate strength in southern and border states.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, seeking re-election in Oklahoma, said in an interview, that the New Yorker's venture into the presidential contest had wiped out what anti-Johnson sentiment existed in his state.

Monroney noted the Oklahoma legislature's unanimous passage, with Republicans participating, of a resolution endorsing Johnson's Vietnam policies.

Successful Investing....

by ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Advisor & Analyst

Single Working Girl Has a Good Head on Her

Q — I am a single working girl and have a substantial savings account. I am a greenhorn in the stock market and would like to know where I have gone astray. I can afford to speculate, but I really want fast-growing stocks. I now own Pacific Tel. & Tel., Foremost-McKesson; Benguet; Bayless Markets. What do you think? — L.R.

A — For a greenhorn you've used your head pretty well. If you like fast growth, I would switch Pacific Tel. & Tel., not because it is a bad stock, but because the tremendous growth of California has caused the company to spend a great deal of money to finance new expansion. I would switch this stock into Pacific Gas & Electric.

Foremost - McKesson should be held in my opinion. Benguet is essentially a speculation on its gold operations in the Philippines. The shares are very speculative, but since you can afford some risk, I would hold them for the present. Bayless Markets operates supermarkets in Arizona, mainly in the Tucson and Phoenix area.

Q — In April, 1966, we bought 100 Lionel at 6 1/2. It closed recently at 7 3/4. Would you advise holding or switching to another low-priced stock? — A.G.

A — I think that if you can get out whole on Lionel, you should do so. There has been a big runup in low-priced stocks, frequently without much merit. Lionel operated at a substantial deficit in the first nine months of 1967, and, personally, I don't consider the future too brilliant. I would sell Lionel and put the proceeds in a high-grade stock, such as Gillette, which looks to me to be oversold. I think it is well to remember that low-priced stocks can move down quickly again just as they've moved up.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market posted a small gain in moderately active trading early Thursday.

The Dow Jones industrial average was up 0.69 at 837.6 after the first half hour of trading.

Gains continued to lead losses by better than 2-to-1 average.

Polaroid was up 2 1/2, and Seagrave 1 1/2. United Air Lines rose 1 1/2.

Fractional gains were scored by Jones & Laughlin, Goodrich, Raytheon, Hooker Chemical, Union Carbide, Avnet, International Paper, and Mead.

Opening blocks included: Piper Aircraft, off 1 at 48 1/2 on 35,000 shares; Consumers Power, off 1/4 at 37 1/2 on 40,000 shares; and General Motors, unchanged at 73 1/2 on 6,500 shares.

Brokers cited an easing of concern over the Vietnam and international monetary situations as helpful.

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Pro-Johnson Delegation

Similarly, a high-ranking Democrat who has been feeling the voter pulse in Virginia said Kennedy's candidacy has made highly probable the choice of a 54-vote pro-Johnson delegation in the July state convention.

His explanation: The Democrats concerned don't like Johnson but they like Kennedy even less—because of his civil-rights actions as U.S. attorney general—and few of them have heard of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., third man in the race.

Johnson's lieutenants say they're convinced the President will have most of the South's convention votes, even in states that might be carried by former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama in the November election.

As an example, Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., has predicted Louisiana will deliver its 36 convention votes to Johnson. But he expects Wallace to carry it in November.

In trying to sew up the fringes of the Deep South, Johnson's lieutenants are running into some difficulties.

Tennessee Backing — Gov. Buford Ellington is trying to knit together a Tennessee delegation bound under the unit rule to give its 51 votes to the President. Kennedy's supporters may challenge the unit rule at the state convention in the hope of nibbling away a few votes.

Florida Sen. George Smathers, not seeking re-election, has put together a delegate slate scheduled to cast the state's 63 ballots for him on the first roll call if it wins in the May 7 primary.

But Smathers himself has no idea where the delegation, which includes four Negro educators and four college students in its ranks, will scatter when the chips are down.

Some of the graves in a pauper cemetery on the 16,000-acre prison farm most likely contain bodies of murdered inmates, Haley said, but documentation had covered up the cause of death in many instances.

Haley said his main concern now was to see that there are no repeat of such incidents in the prison system. He said evidence indicated murder and severe brutality in the system ceased around 1967.

The investigation was touched off when prison officials dug up three skeletons from unmarked graves Jan. 29. But a pathological report said these three men apparently died of natural causes.

Prison Supt. Thomas O. Murton was dismissed as prison superintendent after he speculated that the skeletons were those of murdered inmates.

LBJ Gaining Support From Southern States

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's entry into the Democratic nomination contest appears to have boosted President Johnson's delegate strength in southern and border states.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, seeking re-election in Oklahoma, said in an interview, that the New Yorker's venture into the presidential contest had wiped out what anti-Johnson sentiment existed in his state.

Monroney noted the Oklahoma legislature's unanimous passage, with Republicans participating, of a resolution endorsing Johnson's Vietnam policies.

Single Working Girl Has a Good Head on Her

Q — I am a single working girl and have a substantial savings account. I am a greenhorn in the stock market and would like to know where I should go to get some help. I can afford to speculate, but I really want fast growth stocks. I now own Pacific Tel. & Tel., Foremost-McKesson, Benguet, Bayless Markets. What do you think? — L.R.

A — For a greenhorn you've used your head pretty well. If you like fast growth, I would switch Pacific Tel. & Tel., not because it is a bad stock, but because the tremendous growth of California has caused the company to spend a great deal of money to finance new expansion. I would switch this stock into Pacific Gas & Electric.

Foremost — McKesson should be held in my opinion. Benguet is essentially a speculation on its gold operations in the Philippines. The shares are very speculative, but since you can afford some risk, I would hold them for the present. Bayless Markets operates supermarkets in Arizona, mainly in the Phoenix area.

PREDICTS LBJ END—Richard N. Goodwin, the man who coined the "Great Society" slogan for President Johnson's 1964 campaign, said Tuesday he does not believe Johnson will be re-nominated. Goodwin predicted that the President will be buried by an "avalanche" at this year's Democratic National Convention. Goodwin was a speechwriter for President John F. Kennedy and a member of Johnson's White House staff for nearly two years. He is now campaigning for Sen. Eugene McCarthy, but said he plans to join the Robert F. Kennedy team after the Wisconsin primary. (UPI TELE-VIDEO)

OUSTER ASKED—Richard Nixon called for the replacement of Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman Wednesday in the first farm address of his Wisconsin primary campaign. "Orville Freeman is a good man and a good American," Nixon said. Adjustment Made in SS April Check

Many social security beneficiaries in Ulster County who are over 65 years of age will receive $1 less in their April 3 check, according to George J. Habernig, district manager of the Kingston social security office.

A $1 increase—from $3 to $4—in the monthly premium to be paid by enrollees in the voluntary medical insurance program of medicare goes into effect April 1. The monthly $4 premium will be matched by funds out of the general revenues of the U.S. Treasury, Habernig said. For husbands and wives receiving combined checks the difference will be $2 ($1 increase in premiums for each). The adjustment in the April 3 check applies only to those already enrolled in the voluntary medical insurance part of medicare. Those who signed up after they were past 65 and during the general enrollment period (October 1, 1967-March 31, 1968) will not have deductions made from their checks until July 3, 1968.

Memorial Day Hearing Tonight

A public hearing on a proposed local law which would control business activities on Memorial Day will be held tonight at 7:30 in the County Office Building.

The hearing will be open to all persons for or against the proposed law. Peter J. Savago, chairman of the County Legislature, will preside at the hearing in the meeting room of the County Legislature. Members of the Veterans Affairs Committee will be present at the meeting.

The proposed local law calling for the proper observance of Memorial Day is the culmination of many years of requests from veterans' organizations throughout the county. The law generally would prohibit businesses from opening on Memorial Day except for the sale of certain food items of necessity including medicines, drugs and other essentials.

The law would also prohibit sales promotion advertising which detracts from the true purpose and observance of Memorial Day. Violators of the law will be subject to a $1,000 fine and possible restraint by injunction.

ATLANTA FIRE — Flaming debris spews from the top floors of the 37-story Equitable Life Building in Atlanta Ga., early this morning, into the street below after spectacular fire erupted on the top floors. The falling debris set fire to four nearby buildings and caused the evacuation of the Dinkler Plaza Hotel. Firemen were helpless to reach the top floor. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Bars, Dog Fail to Stop 'Adventurer'

Steel bars on the windows of a restaurant failed to prevent a burglar from breaking into Charles Stevens Texaco station in Goshen Wednesday night. According to reports from the Orange County community, burglars have been active in that area, and the service station operator secured the windows with bars and stationed a watchdog inside. The intruder in a note cautioned that the place was not a burglar proof. A note was found reading, "I broke into your place last night. If I can do it others can." The note was signed "The Adventurer." A PS added, "Nice dog you have." Police later picked up a man on a Middletown street and reported he was holding a tire. Authorities booked Frank Pinigotti of Middletown and charged him with the break-in.

One - Day Extension For Auto Renewals

The renewal period for registrations and operator licenses due to expire on Sunday has been extended an extra day to midnight, Monday, April 1 in all State Motor Vehicle Offices, including Kingston.

County Clerk Albert Spada said the announcement of the extra day of grace was made by State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Vincent L. Tofany because the expiration date falls on Sunday when all offices are closed.

As a result of the extension, motorists will have until midnight Monday to drive on their registrations and licenses which normally would have expired midnight Sunday.

The local Motor Vehicle Bureau is in the County Office Building, Main and Fair Streets.

Commissioner Tofany said there are an unusually large number of auto registrations and operator licenses due to expire this month.

Danger of Taking Pills Shown in Coroner Files

By RALPH DIGHTON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—John Jones had trouble getting to sleep Thursday night. He knew Friday would be a long day, so he took one of his wife's sleeping pills.

He woke up Friday with a cold and used nose drops. On the way to work he started coughing and stopped at a drug-store for throat lozenges.

In midafternoon Jones still felt under the weather. He tried a fellow worker's multipurpose flu remedy.

That night, before dinner, he popped a diet pill in his mouth. After dinner he chewed a tablet to "feed his ulcer."

Later Jones and his wife went to a party. They had a few drinks and Jones started feeling better. He readily agreed when a friend suggested an early morning fishing trip.

Had Pills Handy

The water was choppy, but Jones' foresighted host had motion-sickness pills handy.

By midmorning Saturday Jones was exhausted. He had a few beers with lunch to perk him up for the drive home.

On the freeway, Jones went to sleep.

Crash. The autopsy showed Jones was not drunk. Instead he had taken an overdose of drugs.

Jones' death was an accident, not suicide. Like most accidents, it could have been prevented.

Seventy-two persons died needlessly in drug-related accidents in Los Angeles County in a recent two-year period—1965-66, the latest years for which figures are available from the coroner.

Dr. Edward S. Brady, associate dean of the University of Southern California's School of Pharmacy, who outlined John Jones' fictional case history in a recent interview, says the same thing could happen to anyone not aware of the increasing sophistication and potency of modern drugs.

"People assign a single effect to a drug," he said. "They don't realize that sleeping pills, tranquilizers, ulcer tablets, colds-and-flu remedies, motion-sickness pills and alcohol all contain drugs that can be dangerous in combinations."

Harmful Combination

"Taken singly, none of these is harmful. But it is easy, in a single day, to take a combination of readily available drugs that can add up to an overdose."

Dr. Brady said his and other schools over the country are pushing research in what he calls "a new and hot field of pharmacy—drug interaction."

"We are trying to learn what drugs interact with others and what the effect will be in different types of persons," he said. "It's a slow process and it is complicated by the fact that new drugs are coming out all the time, and today's drugs are not as simple as they used to be and they are far more potent."

"We have known for some time that alcohol and barbiturates are a dangerous combination. They potentiate—that is, the effect of alcohol and sleeping pills together is more than twice that of either taken singly. Each seems to make the brain more sensitive to the other."

"But now we are also becoming concerned with drugs that are simply additive, not multiplying, in effect, primarily because the number of available depressants and stimulants is growing."

Same Effect

"Barbiturates are prescription drugs, and thus less easily obtained. You're not so likely to take liquor and barbiturates together. But you can get the same effect—illness or even death—from mixing liquor with a number of over the counter drugs, or even from mixing them without alcohol."

Dr. Sol Bernstein, assistant director of internal medicine at the Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center, said the hospital annually treats 10,000 cases—about 10 per cent of all admissions—directly due to alcohol or drugs.

"We are planning to set up screening tests to determine how many of these cases involve interactions between drugs and alcohol and between one drug and another," he said.

"It is seldom that we find a case where only one drug is involved."

Parents Still Hopeful

Danny Goldman's Kidnaping: the Many Blind Alleys

By FRANK MURRAY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — In the two years since Danny Goldman was kidnaped, tipsters have sent his parents and the FBI scuttling down blind alleys from Jerusalem to the Oregon logging country, but the Goldmans believe Danny still is alive.

Aaron Goldman said $40,000 waits for the persons who returns his son alive. If their son is dead, the parents will pay a reward to the one who produces evidence of his death.

Phone Vigil Over

The Goldmans say they are bitter with crank callers and they no longer constantly sit by the telephone as Mrs. Goldman did for 18 months.

The Goldmans were tied hand, foot and throat and their mouths gagged with tape at 5 a.m. Monday, March 28, 1966, by a stocky man.

"You don't remember me now but you cheated me, I'm here to get even," Goldman said the man told them after waking them in the bedroom of their waterfront home and tying the family. The man scorned the $50 in Goldman's wallet and $100 in Sally Goldman's purse, and demanded $10,000.

"I don't keep that kind of money in the house," Goldman said.

The man freed Danny, who was to celebrate his 18th birthday the next day, and ordered him to dress. "I'm going to hold Danny as security for the money. You get up $25,000. If you don't get it for tonight the price will be double tomorrow. I'll call ... with instructions."

The man then marched Danny off at gunpoint.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation does not believe the kidnaper ever made contact again. Agents still visit the Goldmans about once a week.

Like Living Nightmare

"It's like living in a nightmare," Mrs. Goldman said during a recent interview in the room where the kidnaping took place. "I relive the episode every day. Unless I hear otherwise, I will always believe my son still is alive. Bible stories say that when a parent loses his child in death, the parent forgets what the child looked like after a while. I have never forgotten."

If Danny still is alive, wouldn't his two-year absence mean he didn't want to return? In the FBI's three other major unsolved kidnapings, the bodies of the victims were found.

"No!" Mrs. Goldman said. "Danny's a very emotional type. A shock like this is so great it could have caused amnesia.

"He could be working someplace, doing the things he liked best — television repair, printing, aquarium or automobile work," the boy's mother said.

His Room Unchanged

The front bedroom in the Goldman home — Danny's room — is unchanged since Danny was hustled away in his own car, an auto now recovered and parked outside.

The bedroom is stacked with television sets in various states of repair, radios, dozens of batteries rusting and corroding, two phylacteries that are the implements of daily prayer for a Jew, other souvenirs of boyhood including a sailboat and school books.

Letters come from all over, Pakistan, Italy, Canada, South America and every nook of the United States. Some mean well, others seem sick.

"I had always presumed there were a few kooks in the world," Goldman said, "but there are so many kooks you wonder. On the other hand, it is gratifying to know there are so many good people who have wished us well and tried to help."

Mrs. Goldman nodded and said, "I don't even know if I'd know how to live a normal life again. I'm suspicious of everyone, afraid, a feeling of suspense all the time."

Would Be 20 Friday

A woman in Miami said she saw Danny in a picture from the Wailing Wall in Jerusalem. A logger in Oregon fir country sent the FBI to a camp in Estacada, Ore. A man in Poulsbo, Wash., said he could sniff out the grave from 25 miles away.

Daniel Jess Goldman would be 20 years old Friday. His last description had him just under six feet, about 170 pounds, brown eyes, dark curly brown hair.

Mrs. Goldman decorates model apartments for her husband, a successful building contractor. But she won't resume her interior decorating business or go back to her profession as a schoolteacher.

"With this troubling me," Mrs. Goldman said, "I just don't want to feel obligated about someone's draperies."

Goldman, once an enthusiastic businessman, said, "I don't have the drive anymore. I don't feel there's a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow anymore, not while our son is gone."

Ravages of Fighting

Hue Begins the Long Road Back

By RICHARD MERRON

HUE, Vietnam (AP) — Gradually Hue is striving to bring itself back from the ravages of the lunar new year fighting. It is going to be a long process.

Everywhere in this city 380 miles northeast of Saigon there still are signs of the Vietnam war's longest sustained battle — 25 days of fighting that wracked the city in February. There are destroyed, burned-out buildings, and marks of shells and bullets in the old capital's walls and battlements.

Little by little the people are trying to restore life to what once was considered South Vietnam's most beautiful city.

Most of the work so far is being done by the people themselves and is centered on their own property—homes, shops or places of business. They have cleared much of the rubble left from the fighting and they are patching up buildings and trying to return a semblance of physical order.

Many Student Volunteers
Student volunteers from Saigon University and other schools have come to Hue to help with the job of rebuilding.

The official task of reconstruction still is moving slowly, however. One American noted that the Tua Thien province chief who had authority over Hue was fired and that other administrative officials are no longer in their posts—either removed missing, wounded or killed.

The same thing is true on the American side with an almost complete changeover in personnel since the offensive.

"We got 14 brand-new people here," said one U.S. official, "and many of them don't even know where province headquarters is yet."

This official also noted the possibility of another enemy attack still is "very much on people's minds and Westy's press conference didn't help."

He referred to a recent news conference statement by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S.

commander in South Vietnam, as a result of a 100-foot pontoon link put in by U.S. Marine. Traffic across the bridge is single file and during the busy hours hundreds of people wait to make the crossing. Somehow they make it, pushing bicycles, motorbikes and handcarts up the 45 degree incline to reach one side or the other.

Women wash clothes from the edge of the structure. Occasionally a Vietnamese man will jump into the water and wash himself at the same time.

"The people are just living from day to day," said one American official, "but they are living. I suppose it's the natural resiliency of the Vietnamese people."

Back to Normal

The U.S. Military Assistant Command (MACV) compound here is back to normal with only the marks of bullets and shells to denote recent fighting. The movie schedule at the compound this week included the TV film "Combat." A goose that fled into the MACV compound during the fighting has been adopted as an official mascot.

The main bridge spanning the perfume River between the new and old sections of Hue was blown up during the fighting but now is usable for limited traffic.

Protestant Leaders In Drive for Unity

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Step-ping up their drive for unification, leaders of 10 Protestant denominations aimed today to have a specific plan of union ready in two years—and sooner if possible.

"This puts us in high gear," said the Rev. Dr. David G. Colwell of Seattle, chairman of the consultation on church union. Brushing aside earlier expectations that the step would be deferred for further preliminary studies, delegates voted Wednesday night to launch immediately the blueprinting of a united church structure, and fixed the time limit for doing it.

"What they're saying here is that we haven't got time to fiddle around," Dr. Colwell told newsmen afterward. "The world is pressing us too hard."

Denominations involved have a total of 5 1/2 million members—about 40 per cent of American Protestants.

Their representatives directed a special commission to have a plan of union prepared by the consultation's next meeting in 1969 "if possible," but not later than the 1970 conference.

The resolution, presented by Dr. James I. McCord, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, said, "We do not believe that 'all deliberate speed' is sufficient for this task. We are now summoned to commit ourselves to such reckless obedience as we believe God now demands of us all."

When complete, the plan will be subject to ratification by the different denominations.

Delegates said the ancient Apostles and Nicene creeds, the historic affirmations of Christian belief, would be used in the united church, but not so as to coerce literal assent to their time-conditioned terminology.

Churches involved include the Methodist, Episcopal, United Church of Christ, United Presbyterian, Presbyterian in the U.S.A., Christian (Disciples), Evangelical United Brethren, African Methodist Episcopal, Zion and Christian Methodist Episcopal.

KING ON TOUR — Dr. Martin Luther King embraces nine-year-old Patricia Kinsey as he is greeted by Newark, N. J. school children and others at Mt. Calvary Baptist Church. King toured Newark seeking support of his upcoming Poor People's Campaign in Washington, D. C. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Two Arrested In Catskill

A routine check of two occupants of a car in Catskill at 6 p. m. Wednesday resulted in the arrest of an 18-year-old youth and his brother on charges of criminal possession of a dangerous drug, a felony.

The State Police, who made the arrests with Catskill village authorities, said Anthony Truesdell, 21, both gave addresses of Catskill and Main Street, Lake Katrine.

Arraigned before Catskill Town Justice George Carl, both defendants waived preliminary examination and were committed to the Greene County jail pending grand jury action.

Trooper L. J. Addis said the two brothers allegedly had in their possession a quantity of marijuana when stopped by Troopers J. W. Miller and M. J. Pazin for a routine check. The drugs were confiscated.

Electric Shock Kills Dutchess Nursery Employee

A 24-year-old employee of a tree nursery firm died Wednesday of electric shock when he came in contact with a high powered line as he was trimming a tree on the property of the exclusive Craig House, a nursing home north of Beacon.

The victim was John Pawson of Fishkill. Dutchess County Medical Examiner Dr. Chester H. Golding of Wappingers Falls investigated the death with State Police and gave a verdict of accidental death due to electric shock pending a formal inquest to be held later.

According to reports, Pawson was standing on a 24-foot metal ladder while trimming the tree. He tossed a length of rope over a high power line and it apparently tangled and as he tried to free the rope, he evidently touched the electric line.

Others working nearby went to his aid and Pawson was rushed to a local hospital where he was pronounced dead.

The victim resided on Bedford Avenue, Fishkill. Troopers were still working on the case at 10:30 a. m. and complete details of the investigation were not available at that hour.

Beautification Gets Assist From Scouts

The landscape was measurably improved recently when a group of area scouts went to work after school and cleaned up the winter's accumulation of papers, pop bottles, debris between the Glasco Turnpike and the Plattekill Creek from the Mt. Marion swimming hole to the Mt. Marion Park bridge. The boys gathered up a total of 20 bushels of refuse carelessly scattered around to litter the roadside. They were under the direction of Harry Rose, Boy Scout Committeeman, Mrs. John Kehoe, Cub Scout Den Mother and Frank Sickler, Webelos Den Master cooperated with Rose on the arrangements.

Boys taking part in the community project were Alan Krepper, Harry Rose Jr., Donald Jankowski Jr., Keith Kehoe, Raymond Denny, Clifford Benjamin, Brian O'Leary, Russell Denny, Ralph Vosberg. Following the work party the boys were treated to soda and ice cream by Rose. The truck for the rubbish was supplied by King's Nursery.

Protestant Leaders In Drive for Unity

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Step-ping up their drive for unifica-tion, leaders of 10 Protestant de-nominations aimed today to have a specific plan of union ready in two years—and sooner if possible.

"This puts us in high gear," said the Rev. Dr. David G. Col-well of Seattle, chairman of the consultation on church union. Brushing aside earlier expec-tations that the step would be deferred for further preliminary studies, delegates voted Wednesday night to launch immediately the blueprinting of a united church structure, and fixed the time limit for doing it. "What they're saying here is na-ry, said, 'We do not believe that we haven't got time to fid-that 'all deliberate speed' is suf-ficient for this task. We are newsmen afterward. 'The world is pressing us too hard.'"

Denominations involved have a total of 5 1/2 million members—about 40 per cent of American Protestants. Their representatives directed a special commission to have a plan of union prepared by the consultation's next meeting in 1969 "if possible," but not later than the 1970 conference. The resolution, presented by Dr. James I. McCord, president of Princeton Theological Sem-inary, said, "We do not believe that we haven't got time to fid-that 'all deliberate speed' is suf-ficient for this task. We are newsmen afterward. 'The world is pressing us too hard.'"

When complete, the plan will be subject to ratification by the different denominations. Delegates said the ancient Apostles and Nicene creeds, the historic affirmations of Chris-tian belief, would be used in the united church, but not so as to coerce literal assent to their time-conditioned terminology. Churches involved include the Methodist, Episcopal, United Church of Christ, United Pres-byterian, Presbyterian in the USA, Christian (Disciples), Evangelical United Brethren, African Methodist Episcopal, African Methodist Episcopal Zion and Christian Methodist Episcopal.

Erie, Niagara Announce Full McCarthy Slate

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Erie and Niagara County sup-porters of Sen. Eugene J. Mc-Carthy's presidential campaign have announced a full slate of delegate candidates to the Dem-ocratic National Convention. Officials of the Coalition for a Democrat Alternative said Wed-nesday they hoped to win three delegate races in each of the area's three Congressional districts. Prominent organization Dem-ocrats in the Buffalo area have backed the renomination of President Johnson, but some sources have been quoted as saying Erie County Chairman Joseph Crangle hopes to swing the vote to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Two Arrested In Catskill

A routine check of two occu-pants of a car in Catskill at 6 p. m. Wednesday resulted in the arrest of an 18-year-old youth and his brother on charges of criminal possession of a dangerous drug, a felony. Leeds State Police, who made the arrests with Catskill village authorities, said Anthony Trues-dell, and Donald Truesdell, 21, both gave addresses of Catskill and Main Street, Lake Ka-trine. Arraigned before Catskill Town Justice George Carl, both defendants waived preliminary

According to reports, Pawson was standing on a 24-foot metal ladder while trimming the tree. He tossed a length of rope over a high power line and it ap-parently tangled and as he tried to free the rope, he evidently touched the electric line.

Come Dine With Me ...At The Capri

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

When a prospective bride wants a large reception, she worries about making it a successful, memorable occasion. When a businessman wants to entertain visiting executives, he knows many minor and major details can end in small exaggerated aggravations unless proper planning of the event is in evidence.

In hosting a reception, dinner-party or small type convention, who wants to worry about a properly inscribed cake, adequate liquor, appropriate flowers in the right spots, or about linen of a specified color. Who wants to worry about tipping the maitre d' and the waiters or the hatcheck girls or how much to allow for parking and floral centerpieces and innumerable items that always turn up at the last minute.

If its your first try at turning host or hostess to a large gathering, you had best turn to an experienced caterer.

Catering is a specialized business and there are many plush places for these types of affairs in the Hudson Valley. But just over the Port Ewen bridge, right in our own backyard, is a success story worth noting.

It all started back in 1949 in the Spillway area off Route 28, when a restaurant was opened by one Joseph Costello Sr. Its cuisine was hearty Italian food and it wasn't before too long that Mrs. Costello's delicious home-baked bread became the specialty of the house.

The baking end of the business enterprise became so popular that the Costellos entertained the idea of opening a bakery but Mr. Costello had a larger dream. He envisioned a more deluxe restaurant coupled with a reception room, a dining room, cocktail lounge—even resort area.

The man with the dream died two years ago but he lived long enough to see most of that dream become reality.

The reality of The Capri 400 in Port Ewen where Mr. Costello's wife and two sons, Joe Jr., and Vincent, carry on what is now a family tradition.

Assuming the proper attitudes of such famous food editors as the late Clementine Padelford and current expert Craig Clairbourne of The Times, I visited The Capri to determine for myself whether or not this restaurant-nightclub did, in fact, cater to a discriminating appetite.

I sat in the New Forum Dining Room. I liked the pale blue and plum decor—it provided a soothing, comfortable atmosphere, exactly right for dining.

The salad was fresh and crisp and three dressings, Italian, French and Russian, were well made.

Clams on the half shell were served properly—cold, plump and fresh. Mrs. Costello's homemade Italian bread and biscuits were exceptionally good. It's no wonder people travel to The Capri just to buy bread, believe it or not.

Appetizers, served in a triangular lazy susan, were not the usual tired fare seen in many restaurants but were refreshingly different. They included melon balls, creamed tuna fish and marinated chopped beef hearts. The Caesar Steak was done to perfection on the kitchen's electric charcoal broiler and the menu offered a selection of fine desserts which I reluctantly by-passed. I can confirm the fact that The Capri serves properly prepared, tasty foods.

The greatest portion of The Capri's schedule, however, is focused on receptions and banquets, business luncheons and dinners, even conventions where they seat at least 400 in their banquet room.

The entire operation is manned by the family. Local people with vision who dared to roll up their sleeves and embrace all difficulties of building a reputation for their "Pearl Mesta" center in Ulster County.

The banquet chef is an uncle, Raymond Prusack of Kingston. A brother-in-law, Michael Palumbo of Port Ewen, works with the Costellos on weekends and on special occasions. Al Sottile, a life-long friend who is regarded as "family" is the chef.

In a team-like effort, this group has established a successful banquet routine which starts at 6 a. m. on the day of the affair. Six to eight hours later, the banquet room, food and service is ready for guests. The kitchen becomes an assembly line and food, served rapidly and efficiently, is hot right down to the last plate served. "This is the secret of our success," the Costello boys told me.

The favorite banquet meat is top sirloin of beef. Five ovens are put to work in the kitchen and even for a luncheon it isn't uncommon to see 10 prime ribs of beef roasting at one time — each weighing at least 30 pounds. Thirty loaves of bread bake in an old fashioned brick oven while Joe Jr. gives the beef special attention with frequent turning and basting.

But whether it is a Princess Banquet or the more detailed Queen Banquet, the same special attention is given to the entire affair. And it isn't unusual to serve at least 400 pounds of meat per reception, to handle two weddings per week and sometimes three to four separate affairs per day. Serving guests is practically a science the way Joe and Vince tell it. In 15 minutes, with the aid of eight waiters, they can serve 400 guests.

The story behind The Capri is one which spells hard work and dedication. It also means tripling one's duties and obligations in order to make years in this type of work pay off.

Landscaping 55 acres of land is just one example of the "side" jobs handled by the Costello family. It wasn't easy to work on their Port Ewen property particularly when parts of it had to be literally reclaimed from the swamps. But now when you drive into The Capri parking lot you get a full view of the vast, lovely area which Joe Jr. likes to call "The Capri Ponderosa." You see the results of leveled hills, filled-in swamp areas, new roads, a modern 27-unit motel fronted by a 9-hole golf course and a swimming pool. The golf course, which is open to the public, is great for putting and chipping, Joe Jr. tells me.

Twenty of the motel units are under contract to IBM but future plans include building more units, adding more space to the banquet room in The Capri 400, and adding another parking lot. As Joe outlined the proposed plans he talked about moving hills of shale like I would a roast from the oven. Joe and Vince are proud of their accomplishments and well they might be for when plans are completed, the Costellos will have the distinction of owning the largest banquet hall of its type (800 seating capacity) under one roof in Ulster County.

Taking it strictly from a gourmet's point of view, The Capri 400 does offer fine food in a warm friendly atmosphere. Excellent food, graciously served, is always a treat.

Appetizers, served in a triangular lazy susan, were not the usual tired fare seen in many restaurants but were refreshingly different. They included melon balls, creamed tuna fish and marinated chopped beef hearts. The Caesar Steak was done to perfection on the kitchen's electric charcoal broiler and the menu offered a selection of fine desserts which I reluctantly by-passed. I can confirm the fact that The Capri serves properly prepared, tasty foods.

The greatest portion of The Capri's schedule, however, is focused on receptions and banquets, business luncheons and dinners, even conventions where they seat at least 400 in their banquet room.

The entire operation is manned by the family. Local people with vision who dared to roll up their sleeves and embrace all difficulties of building a reputation for their "Pearl Mesta" center in Ulster County.

The banquet chef is an uncle, Raymond Prusack of Kingston. A brother-in-law, Michael Palumbo of Port Ewen, works with the Costellos on weekends and on special occasions. Al Sottile, a life-long friend who is regarded as "family" is the chef.

In a team-like effort, this group has established a successful banquet routine which starts at 6 a. m. on the day of the affair. Six to eight hours later, the banquet room, food and service is ready for guests. The kitchen becomes an assembly line and food, served rapidly and efficiently, is hot right down to the last plate served. "This is the secret of our success," the Costello boys told me.

The favorite banquet meat is top sirloin of beef. Five ovens are put to work in the kitchen and even for a luncheon it isn't uncommon to see 10 prime ribs of beef roasting at one time — each weighing at least 30 pounds. Thirty loaves of bread bake in an old fashioned brick oven while Joe Jr. gives the beef special attention with frequent turning and basting.

But whether it is a Princess Banquet or the more detailed Queen Banquet, the same special attention is given to the entire affair. And it isn't unusual to serve at least 400 pounds of meat per reception, to handle two weddings per week and sometimes three to four separate affairs per day. Serving guests is practically a science the way Joe and Vince tell it. In 15 minutes, with the aid of eight waiters, they can serve 400 guests.

The story behind The Capri is one which spells hard work and dedication. It also means tripling one's duties and obligations in order to make years in this type of work pay off.

Landscaping 55 acres of land is just one example of the "side" jobs handled by the Costello family. It wasn't easy to work on their Port Ewen property particularly when parts of it had to be literally reclaimed from the swamps. But now when you drive into The Capri parking lot you get a full view of the vast, lovely area which Joe Jr. likes to call "The Capri Ponderosa." You see the results of leveled hills, filled-in swamp areas, new roads, a modern 27-unit motel fronted by a 9-hole golf course and a swimming pool. The golf course, which is open to the public, is great for putting and chipping, Joe Jr. tells me.

Twenty of the motel units are under contract to IBM but future plans include building more units, adding more space to the banquet room in The Capri 400, and adding another parking lot. As Joe outlined the proposed plans he talked about moving hills of shale like I would a roast from the oven. Joe and Vince are proud of their accomplishments and well they might be for when plans are completed, the Costellos will have the distinction of owning the largest banquet hall of its type (800 seating capacity) under one roof in Ulster County.

Taking it strictly from a gourmet's point of view, The Capri 400 does offer fine food in a warm friendly atmosphere. Excellent food, graciously served, is always a treat.

Going Steady Is Step Many Wish They Hadn't Taken

EDITOR'S NOTE — What do young sweethearts think of the prevalent custom of going steady? Here's what a teen-age part-time writer for the Oak Ridge of Oak Ridge, Tenn., learned when she questioned fellow high school students.

By WANDA ENSOR
The Oak Ridger

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — For thousands of American teen-agers who are going steady, their youth is a time of holding hands, exciting dates, groovy music, moonlit hayrides and happiness. But the adolescents are much more than just love, disillusions, changing values, and seemingly endless spiraling decisions.

It's a time to grow within yourself, trying to understand your own characteristics and motivations and, yet, trying to understand and care just as much about your friends. These are the confusing years of first love, disillusions, changing values, and seemingly endless spiraling decisions.

But just because girl friends drift apart doesn't mean that the teen-age girl has lost her important "someone" to confide in. She merely shifts her many confidences to her new-found steady.

"The biggest fault that I have found with going steady is breaking up," sighed a young lady. It seems the guys have adopted a "hands-off" policy. They know a certain girl has been dating a certain boy, they begin to associate her with him, and it never occurs to them that the girl may be free once again and wanting to play the field.

Many of the girls who are going steady stated definitely that they would not recommend it for a young friend who has never made such a commitment.

Nearly all the girls questioned said they believed their steadies would eventually marry them—even those who were unsure of themselves right now claimed that their relationships were lasting ones. The main problem with settling with one date at rest, it's nice to date just him and become closer to him than the others, was one appraisal.

The general concept seems to be that as you gain a little understanding in relationships with the opposite sex, you lose a little with your own. "Not that I don't have as many girl friends since I started going steady," explained one senior. "We still go out to dinner or bowling sometimes, but not as often. And we just aren't as close now."

Square Dance Caller Here Friday

Lefooters Square Dance Club will present guest caller, Dick Mastriani of Agawam, Mass., on Friday at 8:30 p.m. in the Hurley Reformed Church Hall, off Route 209, Hurley.

Mastriani travels to many neighboring communities to call for square dance clubs and has attained a great importance recently by being elected program director for the ninth annual New England Square Dance Convention, April 26-27, at Pittsfield, Mass. He has programmed more than 100 callers to entertain the 6000 dancers expected to attend.

The old fashioned barn dance is a big part of Americana, and here in the Hudson Valley there is what is known as western style square dancing. Many square dance clubs have been springing up all over New York area providing a healthful, friendly and fun-filled form of exercise. The Lefooters have been in existence for three and one-half years and have an active membership of more than 100 couples. Many travel to neighboring states to other clubs; many are campers that attend "Square Dance Weekends"; some attend the camp grounds for the special dance on Saturday nights.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Owlin, chairman of the executive committee of Lefooters, invite the public to attend the dances which are held each Friday night in the Hurley Reformed Church Hall.

The Lefooters, a non-profit group, will perform for church affairs, in special shows or charitable events, in and around the Kingston area.

She's Egyptian National Treasure

By ALY MAHMOUD

CAIRO (AP) — Her songs have inspired a generation of romantic Arabs, and her golden voice is regarded as a propaganda fortune and a national asset to President Nasser's crusade of Arab unity.

in Egypt produced nearly $1 million in gold which poured into the country's effort to build its armed forces. The songstress herself contributed her rare jewels but she declined to disclose their worth.

She is Om Kalthum, now 63 and the richest woman in the Arab world, who is giving all her time to bolster efforts to recover territories occupied by Israel.

The Edith Piaf of the Middle East, Om Kalthum's popularity surges out through a dozen countries scattered between the Persian gulf and the Atlantic Ocean.

When she sings—once monthly—millions of fans cluster around shortwave radio sets. They abandon all activity and go home or sit in restaurants and coffee-houses to close their eyes and listen. In Cairo thousands attend her performance and a state of emergency is declared in the traffic administration.

Wrap Frank Sinatra, Dinah Shore, Doris Day and Bing Crosby into one bundle and you get an idea of what Om Kalthum means to Arabs.

Now she is busy producing fresh songs, some on the theme of love and many others to spur Arab patriotism and overcome defeatism.

She recently made a week-long visit to Paris where she gave two performances before predominantly Arab audiences. The trip raised almost $100,000 in hard currencies, which all poured into the Arab efforts to reclaim occupied territories.

Earlier, her fund-raising tours

She has idolized Nasser in her songs since the young leader came to power in 1952.

When Nasser diverted the course of the Nile in construction of the High Dam at Aswan, Om Kalthum sang, "People of Egypt, Gamal has achieved a miracle. . . thank the almighty for having us a Gamal."

Today in an effort to console the nation and urge it to face the tragedy of war she sings: "We are commended. . . We will outlive the setback."

Overnight, her songs become hymns.

But she strongly rejects a bellicose approach to settling differences between states. She insists there is nothing "lovelier than coexistence, peace and love."

Om Kalthum is known to be deeply religious. Those close to her say she never parts from her copy of the Koran, the Moslem holy book. Before every performance she offers prayers to God, they say.

She sprang from a humble origin. Her father sang in a village choir. As a youngster she travelled with her father and chanted verses from the Koran, thus earning a little money. Her fame gradually spread to Cairo itself. In 1920 she came to Cairo and began singing career.

Today, she commands $2,990 for a personal appearance. Her wealth is estimated at about $6 million.

To the western ear her singing is reminiscent of the Spanish Flamenco style. It centers on breath control rather than the extremes of pitch which usually fascinate the average westerner.

Handicrafts Booming

CHICAGO (AP) — Macaroni jewelry, decorated trash and flowers made of bread spark one of the fastest growing trends in the hobby field—handicrafts.

The growth of handicrafts shows the increasing part played by women in what previously was considered a man's field, explained Lee L. Blyler, president of Hobby Industry Association of America, Inc.

"The hobby industry is appealing to women where before it was aimed mainly toward men," Blyler said at the conclusion of the association's 31st annual trade fair.

"When people think of hobbies they usually think of model airplanes and train sets. Now, more emphasis is on handicrafts."

Handicrafts illustrate what Blyler considers the real difference between toys and hobbies. "Hobbies appeal to the person's creative instinct while toys appeal to the play instinct," he said.

Handicrafts are appealing to women because of the increased leisure time made possible by labor-saving devices in the home, he theorized.

"We are getting some talented women in the industry who are coming up with many interesting things for women."

One of the pioneers in this field produces a line of handicraft materials under the name of Aleene. She also is author of how-to-do-it books such as "Trim Your Trash" and "Decorate Your Discard."

"I started with real flowers, then made artificial ones. Now I specialize in junk, trash and discard," Aleene said.

Aleene's handicraft items include macaroni jewelry, dolls made of "metalized" rags and breaded flowers.

The flowers are made by mixing bread with a special glue she developed. The mixture hardens like plastic.

Going Steady Is Step Many Wish They Hadn't Taken

EDITOR'S NOTE — What do young sweethearts think of the prevalent custom of going steady? Here's what a teen-age part-time writer for the Oak Ridger of Oak Ridge, Tenn., learned when she questioned fellow high school students.

By WANDA ENSOR
The Oak Ridger

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — For thousands of American teen-agers who are going steady, their youth is a time of holding hands, exciting dates, groovy music, moonlit hayrides and happiness. But the adolescent years are much more than that. They are the confusing years of first love, disillusionment, changing values, and seemingly endless spiraling decisions.

It's a time to grow within yourself, trying to understand your own characteristics and an increasingly difficult position at this time when they can hardly be really close even to themselves. But going steady is becoming more and more popular. Just a generation ago young girls who went steady were considered fast, and boys who suggested such an unheard-of relationship were little more than wolves.

But just because girl friends drift apart doesn't mean that the teen-age girl has lost her important "someone" to confide in. She merely shifts her many confidences to her new-found steady.

"The biggest fault that I have found with going steady is breaking up," sighed a young lady. It seems the guys have adopted a "hands-off" policy. They know a certain girl has been dating a certain boy, they begin to associate her with him, and it never occurs to them that the girl may be free once again and wanting to play the field.

Nearly all the girls who were questioned declared with emphasis that going steady is not an easy road to the security of a regular Saturday night date as many people claim. Neither is it a status symbol, but an expression of mutual understanding and concern by the young dating partners.

"Dating several boys is nice, but when you find one that you care more about than all the rest, it's nice to date just him and become closer to him than the others," was one appraisal.

The general concept seems to be that as you gain a little understanding in relationships with the opposite sex, you lose a little with your own. "Not that I don't have as many girl friends since I started going steady," explained one senior. "We still go out to dinner or bowling sometimes, but not as often. And we just aren't as close now."

How, one girl wants to know, can you make a lifetime decision such as choosing a marriage partner with such scant experience?

The answer is, of course, you can't—not with any degree of confidence, anyway. Don't, implore the ones who are emotionally involved already, settle down too soon.

GOP Women Hear Kramer; Topic Is Narcotics

The New York State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission will be one year old on April 1st. In that year, some of the accomplishments include eight treatment centers, seven more centers to be opened shortly, 2,700 addicts in treatment centers, 3,000 other addicts in private institutions, one half million pieces of literature on drug addiction, its prevention, and in-service training programs for teachers. This was outlined by Bernard S. Kramer, Community Relations Specialist with the Commission, at a monthly meeting of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club last week.

The New York State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission is not a law enforcement agency, he stated. All cases of drug addiction are referred to it by the courts and in many cases the individual or his family, having heard of the Commission, ask for help. Continuing, Mr. Kramer emphasized there are 30,000 known drug addicts in New York State today, more than half in the entire nation. In response to this problem the Commission developed a three part program—to prevent drug abuse and narcotic addiction, rehabilitate those now addicted and conduct research to determine the causes and effects of drug abuse. There are over 500 professionals working with the commission to help the drug addict whose average age is 24. The two-fold purpose of the Commission is treating the drug addict and protecting the public, he concluded.

Mrs. Frederick Stang, club president, announced that the 16th Annual Republican Women's Conference will be held at the Washington Hilton Hotel, Washington, D. C. April 22-25. The theme of the Conference this year is "Victory 68." Any one wishing to attend should contact Mrs. Stang as soon as possible.

Plans were also formulated at the meeting for a dinner to be held on May 17 in observance of "I Am An American Day" with the Hon. Lourene George, member of the House of Representatives, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, as guest speaker. Mrs. Walter Caunitz will be dinner chairman.

The next meeting of the club will be held on April 18 at the Governor Clinton Hotel at 8 p. m.

GOP Women Hear Kramer; Topic Is Narcotics

The New York State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission will be one year old on April 1st. In that year, some of the accomplishments include eight treatment centers, seven more centers to be opened shortly, 2,700 addicts in treatment centers, 3,000 other addicts in private institutions, one half million pieces of literature on drug addiction, its prevention, and In-Service Training programs for teachers. This was outlined by Bernhardt S. Kramer, Community Relations Specialist with the Commission, at a monthly meeting of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club last week.

The New York State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission is not a law enforcement agency, he stated. All cases of drug addiction are referred to it by the courts and in many cases the individual or his family, having heard of the Commission, ask for help. Continuing, Mr. Kramer emphasized there are 30,000 known drug addicts in New York State today, more than half in the entire nation. In response to this problem the Commission developed a three part program—to prevent drug abuse and narcotic addiction, rehabilitate those now addicted and conduct research to determine the causes and effects of drug abuse. There are over 500 professionals working with the commission to help the drug addict whose average age is 24. The two-fold purpose of the Commission is treating the drug addict and protecting the public, he concluded.

Mrs. Frederick Stang, club president, announced that the 16th Annual Republican Women's Conference will be held at the Washington Hilton Hotel, Washington, D. C. April 22-25. The theme of the Conference this year is "Victory 68." Anyone wishing to attend should contact Mrs. Stang as soon as possible.

Plans were also formulated at the meeting for a dinner to be held on May 17 in observance of "I Am An American Day" with the Hon. Lourene George, member of the House of Representatives, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, as guest speaker. Mrs. Walter Caunitz will be dinner chairman.

The next meeting of the club will be held on April 18 at the Governor Clinton Hotel at 8 p.m.

Resnick Denounces U. N. Resolution

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick (D-Elmhurst) Tuesday denounced the UN resolution condemning Israel as "an open invitation to continued terrorism" in the troubled Middle East.

Hits Double Standard
"The United Nations is guilty of using a disgraceful double standard in this conflict," said Resnick, a leading candidate for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senator.

"There were no harsh words, no resolutions when an Israeli school bus hit a mine in the road only a few days before the raid, killing two school children and injuring 28 others," the congressman said. "This was only one of countless acts of continuous terror from these commando bases, and this is increasing."

"Yet—in an incredible application of the double standard—the UN saw fit to pass a censure resolution when Israel moved across its borders to try to eliminate a Jordanian terrorist base which has been bleeding it white since the June cease fire."

"And though outside sources have confirmed the Jordanian terrorist buildup of Soviet and Red Chinese weapons, the UN Security Council made no mention of this," Resnick added. "No one for one minute could believe that there is any peaceful purpose in the Jordan terrorist base," the Congressman said. "How would Texas and the U.S. Government react if Mexican terrorist bases were set up across the border, say, a few miles from San Antonio? "The U.S. could not—would not—sit still while foreign terrorist criminals gathered to launch terror of U.S. citizenry."

"And Israel cannot sit still to the Jordan terrorist menace if the UN will not help."

Cites Ineptness
"Again the UN has demonstrated its ineptness in dealing not with the cause, but only the symptoms in the Israel-Arab conflict," Resnick said. "The right way to use its power and prestige would be to launch an all-out effort to obtain a concrete Arab-Israeli peace treaty for once and for all."

The awards will be based on the following criteria: an applicant must be in top quarter of class; must have college board scholastic aptitude test scores of 500 verbal and 500 math; and must have been accepted by a two or four-year college with plans to complete a four-year degree course. Financial need is not a factor.

Applicants for 1968 awards must submit their applications by letter to assistant superintendent of schools Robert A. Robertaccio through their school counselors no later than April 25.

"No one for one minute could believe that there is any peaceful purpose in the Jordan terrorist base," the Congressman said. "How would Texas and the U.S. Government react if Mexican terrorist bases were set up across the border, say, a few miles from San Antonio? "The U.S. could not—would not—sit still while foreign terrorist criminals gathered to launch terror of U.S. citizenry. "And Israel cannot sit still to the Jordan terrorist menace if the UN will not help."

Cites Ineptness

"Again the UN has demonstrated its ineptness in dealing not with the cause, but only the symptoms in the Israel-Arab conflict," Resnick said.

"The right way to use its power and prestige would be to launch an all-out effort to obtain a concrete Arab-Israeli peace treaty for once and for all."

Mrs. Al Emmerling and Mrs. Charles Denksen have accepted appointment to the Board of Directors of the Rondout Valley Scholarship Fund by the Board of Education. Mrs. Emmerling is instructional consultant at the Marletown Elementary School. Mrs. Denksen is active in community projects in and around Accord.

At its March meeting, the fund directors decided to offer four $200 honorary scholarships to 1968 graduates of Rondout Valley High School. The awards will be based on the following criteria: an applicant must be in top quarter of class; must have college board scholastic aptitude test scores of 500 verbal and 500 math; and must have been accepted by a two or four-year college with plans to complete a four-year degree course. Financial need is not a factor.

Applicants for 1968 awards must submit their applications by letter to assistant superintendent of schools Robert A. Robertaccio through their school counselors no later than April 25.

Final choice of recipients will be based on the letter of application and on teacher ratings on citizenship, leadership and college potential. Finally, the winners will be determined by personal interviews by the fund's screening committee.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — With acquisition of Elvin Hayes of the San Diego Rockets, the National Basketball Association wins an important round in the fight with the new American Basketball Association for talent.

Houston's "Big E" signed a contract Wednesday with the NBA Rockets. Although terms of the "multiple-year" pact weren't announced, it is believed to involve about $440,000 over a four-year period.

The Rockets moved quickly to sign the 6-foot-9½ performer, named College Player of the Year. They won a coin flip Monday with Baltimore for the right to make the NBA's No. 1 draft selection.

Knicks Stagger 76ers

Night of Surprises In NBA Playoffs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Bulls won a late reprieve, the Philadelphia 76ers saved themselves from an embarrassing predicament and the Detroit Pistons kept right on killing the giant.

The first round of the National Basketball Association playoffs provided surprises all around Wednesday night when Chicago beat Los Angeles 104-98 in the Western Division, and Philadelphia outlasted New York 138-132 in double overtime and Detroit took Boston 109-98 in the East.

Chicago's victory kept the Lakers from taking an impregnable 3-0 lead in the best-of-7 series and put Los Angeles ahead 2-1 instead.

Philadelphia's late heroics kept New York from pulling ahead in their rugged series, which returns to New York Saturday. The 76ers are now ahead two games to one.

Pistons Surprise

And, ah, the Pistons. To have predicted only a week or so ago that Detroit could have taken a 2-1 lead over the Celtics at this stage would have been foolhardy. But Detroit, which beat Boston only twice during the regular season, already has matched that total in the playoffs.

Even more remarkable, the triumph came at Boston where the Pistons rallied from a 52-48 halftime deficit and outscored the Celtics 33-15 in the third period. Dave Bing and Eddie Miles each scored 10 points.

Then Jimmy Walker took over and scored 14 points in the final period to keep the Celtics away. Bing led the Pistons with 27 points while John Havlicek had 23 for Boston.

The Knicks fought back from 10 points behind in the fourth period to take a lead near the

Ferraro Thanks Yankees...for His Eyesight

All Mike Ferraro wanted Wednesday from the New York Yankees was the starting job at third base. But he ended up thanking them for something more valuable... his eyesight, reports the Associated Press from Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

A doctor found during a Yankee-ordered eye checkup that the hard-hitting 23-year-old Kingston rookie was suffering from glaucoma, an incurable eye disease.

It was a staggering blow for Ferraro who is in the middle of a battle with rookie Bobby Cox for the third base spot in the Yankee lineup.

But the Kingston lad took the news philosophically and was thankful for the eye examination, the first ever ordered by the Yankees.

Had No Difficulty

"It's a good thing they set up the examination," Ferraro said. "I'd have never gone to an eye doctor. I had no reason to."

Dr. Oscar Sherman of Fort Lauderdale, who examined Ferraro, said Ferraro will be on medication for the rest of his life, but that "he should be able to continue playing."

"The disease is incurable, but controllable," said the doctor. "In Mike's case we caught it early. Undetected, it eventually could cause blindness."

"He scared the hell out of me," Ferraro said. "I'll have to put drops in my eyes every night for the rest of my life, but if the Yankees hadn't set up this exam..."

Was Not Advanced

Dr. Sherman said the disease had not advanced far enough yet to have damaged Ferraro's sight, and his .355 batting spring batting average shows it.

Ferraro had collected 11 hits in 31 at bats with six RBI's in nine games. He also had been outstanding at third base in what has been his best spring to date. His batting average was second highest on the team.

Yankee spokesman Bob Fishel said this was the first year the team scheduled spring checkups. Usually the examinations are held later in the year when the roster is smaller and consequently so is the doctor's bill, the Associated Press reported.

Everybody's been tagging Boston pitching this spring, but the Red Sox won't turn the other cheek. No' by a long shot.

Beanballs flew at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Wednesday as the American League champs bowed to the New York Yankees 4-2 for their 13th setback in 19 exhibition games.

Dick Williams, the Red Sox' pilot, and Coach Eddie Popowski were ejected in an eighth inning ruckus with umpire Frank Umont after Boston pitcher Lee Stange clipped the Yanks' Roy White in the back with a fast ball.

Jerry Stephenson, the Red Sox' starter, had hit Bob Cox with a pitch in the sixth and the Yankees' Dale Spier had fired a pitch over Joe Foy's head in the top of the eighth. When White was plunked leading off the bottom of the inning, Umont one hit in a six-inning stint as warned Williams, then tossed him out.

The same clubs staged a free-for-all last June at Yankee Stadium after Boston ace Jim Lonborg and New York's Thad Tilton took turns low-bridging the hitters.

While the Red Sox' troubles continued, St. Louis' world champions buried the Chicago White Sox 8-2 at Sarasota, Fla., for their 12th victory in 18 starts. Lou Brock's second spring homer paced a 17-hit Cardinal attack.

At Orlando, Fla., Harmon Kilbrew's 11th inning homer gave the Minnesota Twins a 1-0 victory over Baltimore. Kilbrew blasted his fifth exhibition homer off Gene Brabender, the fourth Baltimore pitcher. Jim Merritt, Al Worthington, Ron Perranoski and Jim Roland stopped the Orioles on six hits. Rico Carty and Dick Dietz Also Stricken by Illness

Mike Ferraro of Kingston was only one of three major league baseball players in the spring training medical news Wednesday.

At West Palm Beach, Fla. outfielder Rico Carty was sent to a hospital for extensive examinations to determine if he has tuberculosis.

At San Francisco, catcher Dick Dietz of the Giants was to undergo tests to find the cause of high blood pressure that has troubled him for nearly a week.

Carty had reported for training about 10 pounds under his playing weight of 200 pounds and recently had complained of being weak and not feeling right.

Next comes round two of the NBA-ABA signing battle. It involves the Baltimore Bullets, last place team in the NBA's Eastern Division. The signing of Hayes frees the Bullets to seek the No. 2 choice, Seattle will draft third.

But Hal Greer stole a pass and scored with 16 seconds left, then stole the in-bounds pass and Matt Guokas was fouled with six seconds left. He made the free throw and the game went into another overtime. Walker put the 76ers ahead for good and scored six points in the final extra period.

Cazzie Russell scored 40 points for the Knicks while Walker had 32 for Philadelphia. Flynn Robinson's 41 points, 20 coming in the second quarter, led the Bulls to their triumph. It was only the second time this season Chicago has beaten the Lakers. Jerry West had 32 points for Los Angeles.

NCAA Swimming Gets Under Way At Dartmouth

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — Defending titlist Stanford was rated the team to beat at the 45th NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships go under way at Dartmouth.

Despite the loss of super star Greg Buckingham, who piled up 45 points last year, Stanford is loaded with talent, including Olympic swimmers Dick Roth and Luis Nicolao and a flock of other standouts.

Indiana is the choice of many observers to dethrone Stanford. The Hoosiers boast four outstanding athletes who could pick up as many as 60 points in the diving events alone. Killy, Greene Head for Titles

ROSSLAND, B.C. (AP) — Jean-Claude Killy and Nancy Greene began looking today for more points at the Red Mountain international ski meet on their way to second straight World Cup Championships.

Killy is far ahead of the competition going into this weekend's international meet here, the second to last one in which World Cup points are counted. Miss Greene, a native of Rossland, has a 26-point lead over Isabelle Mir and Florence Steurer of France.

Both Killy and Miss Greene have said they will retire from competition after this season.

Miss Greene took a spill skiing in warmups Wednesday, but was unhurt, and said, "It's very smooth with fresh snow. It's excellent."

The women's slalom was held today, the men's giant slalom is on Saturday and Sunday and the women's giant slalom is on Sunday.

NHL West Division Title? Looks Like Nobody Wants It

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It looks like nobody wants to win the National Hockey League's West Division title.

Given consecutive chances to move into first place in the expansionist West, Los Angeles lost twice, the latest a 5-3 setback to Minnesota Wednesday night.

Philadelphia, tied in points but with two more games to play than LA, isn't making much headway either. The Flyers lost 3-0 to St. Louis Wednesday.

In other games, Pittsburgh kept its flickering West playoff hopes alive with a 7-4 comeback victory over Oakland and Toronto shut out Montreal 6-0 in the only East game played.

Los Angeles jumped in front twice against Minnesota but the North Stars kept coming back, finally taking the lead on a pair of second-period goals by Wayne Connelly.

The loss left LA with 71 points—the same number as Philadelphia—and only one regular season game remaining.

Glenn Hall's 73rd career shut-out stalled the Flyers, who have three more games to play. It was the first victory this season for St. Louis over Philadelphia and moved the Blues closer to a playoff berth.

St. Louis could have locked up fourth place if Oakland had knocked off Pittsburgh and, for awhile, it looked like the Seals would oblige. John Brenneman scored two first-period goals and Oakland took a 3-1 lead.

But veterans Ab McDonald and Leo Boivin each hit twice as

Rocky Raises Tax on Wagers

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller has signed a bill increasing from 15 per cent to 16 per cent the state's tax on the money wagered at thoroughbred and harness horse racing tracks.

The announcement of the signing came from the governor's office Wednesday.

Rockefeller has estimated that the change will provide an extra $6.5 million in net revenue for the state—money he needs to help balance his proposed $5.5-billion budget.

In addition to raising the state's "take" at the tracks, the bill provides that:

—$3.5 million go to thoroughbred tracks with the specification that the money be used to increase purses.

—$3.3 million go to the state's harness tracks to be used as the tracks see fit.

—The thoroughbred tracks receive an extra $3.5 million to make up deficits incurred in last year's strike by horsemen at the Aqueduct flat track.

NCAA Swimming Gets Under Way At Dartmouth

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — Defending titlist Stanford was rated the team to beat as the 45th NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships go under way at Dartmouth.

Despite the loss of super star Greg Buckingham, who piled up 45 points last year, Stanford is loaded with talent, including Olympic swimmers Dick Roth and Luis Nicolao and a flock of other standouts.

Outstanding performances were expected during the three-day meet as the nation's top collegians look ahead to the Olympic Games later this year.

Indiana is the choice of many observers to dethrone Stanford. The Hoosiers boast four outstanding athletes who could pick up as many as 60 points in the diving events alone. Today's Games

St. Louis could have locked up fourth place if Oakland had knocked off Pittsburgh and, for awhile, it looked like the Seals would oblige. John Brenneman scored two first-period goals and Oakland took a 3-1 lead.

But veterans Ab McDonald and Leo Bolvin each hit twice as the Penguins came back. The victory left Pittsburgh three points back of St. Louis. The Blues have three games to play and Pittsburgh two.

Murray Oliver scored twice and assisted on another goal as Toronto thumped Montreal. It was a meaningless game for both teams since Montreal already has clinched the East Division title and Toronto is destined to finish fifth.

Philadelphia, tied in points but with two more games to play than L.A., isn't making much headway either. The Flyers lost 3-0 to St. Louis Wednesday.

In other games, Pittsburgh kept its flickering West playoff hopes alive with a 7-4 comeback victory over Oakland and Toronto shut out Montreal 6-0 in the only East game played.

Los Angeles jumped in front twice against Minnesota but the North Stars kept coming back, finally taking the lead on a pair of second-period goals by Wayne Connelly.

The loss left LA with 71 points—the same number as Philadelphia—and only one regular season game remaining.

Glenn Hall's 73rd career shut-out stalled the Flyers, who have three more games to play. It was the first victory this season for St. Louis over Philadelphia and moved the Blues closer to a playoff berth.

In other games, Pittsburgh kept its flickering West playoff hopes alive with a 7-4 comeback victory over Oakland and Toronto shut out Montreal 6-0 in the only East game played.

Los Angeles jumped in front twice against Minnesota but the North Stars kept coming back, finally taking the lead on a pair of second-period goals by Wayne Connelly.

The loss left LA with 71 points—the same number as Philadelphia—and only one regular season game remaining.

Glenn Hall's 73rd career shut-out stalled the Flyers, who have three more games to play. It was the first victory this season for St. Louis over Philadelphia and moved the Blues closer to a playoff berth.

St. Louis could have locked up fourth place if Oakland had knocked off Pittsburgh and, for awhile, it looked like the Seals would oblige. John Brenneman scored two first-period goals and Oakland took a 3-1 lead.

But veterans Ab McDonald and Leo Bolvin each hit twice as the Penguins came back. The victory left Pittsburgh three points back of St. Louis. The Blues have three games to play and Pittsburgh two.

UNUSUAL RIDE — Canadian Pacific Stewardess Diane Richards' unusual ride is reminiscent of a rodeo rider and she winds up where most bronco-busters do — on the deck. Miss Richards hiked up her skirt and took demonstration romp on the Ride-a-Roo, the Kangaroo Jockey Ball which, over the past few months has convulsed the English toy world and soon will be sold on the West Coast. Pueblo Sailor Has 'Go to Hell Grin'

NEW YORK (AP) — Wearing what his wife calls his "go to hell grin," Fireman Michael O'Bannon posed next to a ping pong table somewhere in North Korea with seven fellow captured crewmen of the U.S.S. Pueblo.

The picture and a letter from the Navy man arrived recently at the O'Bannon home in Beaverton, Ore.—one of a number of such letters coming to crewmen's families and high officials in the United States.

Mrs. O'Bannon thinks the letter is phony. And many other relatives of the Americans who were captured two months ago say that the letters they have received simply do not ring true.

Mrs. O'Bannon said the grin on her husband's face was the one he "always wore when I wanted him to do something he didn't want to do." She said she is pretty sure that the man is her husband and that he's wearing his "go to hell grin."

Unnatural Style

She said the letter was written in an unnatural style. He refers to her as "My dearest Kay," which she says he never would have written and to his parents as "the family" instead of the usual "Mom and Pop."

The letters to relatives, to President Johnson, and to senators are seen by the State Department as part of a propaganda effort by the North Korean Communists. Many of the letters call on the United States to apologize to North Korea for the activities of the electronic surveillance ship.

Mrs. Gerald Nolte of Washington, Iowa, said the letter from her son, Clifford, reads "like he had been forced to copy it from a blackboard."

The handwriting on the letter she got is definitely that of her son, says Mrs. Everett Arnold of Santa Rosa, Calif. But she said the letter from Richard reads as though he would start a sentence and someone else would finish it.

Mrs. Lyle C. Shingleton of Atoka, Okla., mother of Seaman John Shingleton, does not think her son wrote the two identical letters she received.

One of her clues is the way the letters start: "Dear Mom and Dad," "He always starts out, 'Dear Folks'," Mrs. Shingleton said.

Like Mrs. O'Bannon, Mrs. Shingleton received a picture. Both photos were turned over to the Navy.

Families Are Confused

Some of the families contacted by the Associated Press said

Is He Serious?

Pat Paulsen's Candidacy

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is it a mammoth put-on, or does Pat Paulsen really have a chance in the presidential race?

There is Paulsen, looking for all the world like a candidate, shaking hands with constituents and making statements that are innocuous enough to sound like political dialogue.

Mock campaigns for the presidency have been prevalent on the American scene since the years when Eddie Cantor offered his candidacy on radio. Now the immense reach of television has contributed a grass roots campaign for Pat Paulsen, who first achieved note as the totally inept editorialist on the

Sunday night "Smothers Brothers Show."

After several weeks of proclaiming his noncandidacy on the air—meanwhile shaking hands with the studio audience after every speech—Paulsen finally acceded to what he termed popular demand and declared himself an active candidate.

Hard to Tell

Is he serious? It's hard to tell. "I figure I can swing at least 100,000 to 200,000 votes," says Paulsen without the faintest smile. "I feel responsible now; I wouldn't want to take any votes away from somebody I dig."

The man Paulsen digs most, off-camera, is Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota on the Democratic side, and possibly New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller among the Republicans, "although Rockefeller is not a true Republican." The criterion here is that McCarthy is a dove on Vietnam policy and "Rockefeller might be a dove," Paulsen, like his mentors, the Smothers Brothers, is unmistakably dove-ish.

Despite his loyalties, Paulsen claims to be conducting his campaign without fear or favor. "People think I am a flaming liberal," he said with a degree of seriousness, "But I am conservative in many ways."

For one thing, his residence, Paulsen, his wife Betty Jane and three children live in Orange, Calif., the heartland of the most conservative county of the state, and perhaps the nation. This, he admitted, was a historical accident, the result of his having earned a $3,000 check for composing a song for the Smothers Brothers; he invested it in a modest home at the geographical center of a number of intimate night clubs that offered employment for his esoteric brand of humor.

Pat Paulsen was born in South Bend, Wash., and grew up in the San Francisco area, attending Tamalpais High School and San Francisco City College. After service in the Marines, he tried his comic monologues in tiny night clubs in the Bay area, with the most modest of success. While waiting for fortune to smile, he worked in a gypsum mine, a print shop and as driver of a baby formula truck.

Shifting to Southern California, he was viewed at Pasadena's night spot, The Ice House, by the Smothers Brothers and their staff, who sought him as a performer on their forthcoming CBS variety hour.

Comedy Immediate Hit

Paulsen's deadpan comedy was an immediate hit, and he became a regular with the Smothers Brothers. From editorialist he naturally evolved into residential candidate, and the campaign seems to be having widespread ramifications. He has heard that he received at least 50 votes in the New Hampshire primary, and 14 per cent of the vote for mayor of Lansing, Mich.—which is pretty remarkable when you consider that I wasn't even running for mayor of Lansing, Mich."

The Paulsen handlers are planning a widespread campaign, including a national convention to be held on the Smothers Brothers Summer Show.

Dutchess Dems Pick Whalen For Senate Post

The split between the Dutchess and Ulster Democratic organizations continues to widen after it was learned that the Dutchess County Democratic chairman will seek the State Senate post now held by Republican Jay P. Rolison Jr.

The Ulster County Democrats nominated A. E. "Al" Woolley of New Paltz for the post last Saturday at their unofficial convention. Dutchess Dems nominated George Whalen.

The 99th Senatorial District is composed of Dutchess and Ulster Counties.

Dutchess now has endorsed I. J. "Jack" Lippman for the congressional seat now held by Representative Joseph Y. Resnick, whereas Ulster Democrats endorsed John Stuart Dyson of Millbrook. Lippman is a Dutchess County college professor.

Informed sources told The Freeman that the three-man national convention slate nominated by the Ulster Democrats will be challenged by another three-man group which will be put up by the county chairman of Columbia, Dutchess and Greene. The three-county slate will be pledged to support the Presidential bid of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, whereas the Ulster slate will be pledged to support the re-nomination of President Johnson.

Another slate, this one proposed by the Coalition for a Democratic Alternative and strongly behind the Presidential aspirations of Sen. Eugene McCarthy, will probably wage a primary battle to put up two men pledged to the Minnesota senator.

Pilatich Wins Catskill Post

Joseph M. Pilatich, an employee of IBM Kingston, was one of three Village of Catskill Democrats to unseat three Republican office holders in Tuesday's election. Pilatich won the assessor's post with 699 votes over his Republican opponent David Porter's 579.

Democrats also picked up two trustee posts with John Cummings and Leonard Black winning over incumbents Stanley O'Ko and Jerome Hartman.

UNUSUAL RIDE — Canadian Pacific Stewardess Diane Richards' unusual ride is reminiscent of a rodeo rider and she winds up where most bronco-busters do — on the deck. Miss Richards hiked up her skirt and took demonstration romp on the Ride-a-Roo, the Kangaroo Jockey Ball which, over the past few months has convulsed the English toy world and soon will be sold on the West Coast. Pueblo Sailor Has 'Go to Hell Grin'

NEW YORK (AP) — Wearing what his wife calls his "go to hell grin," Fireman Michael O'Bannon posed next to a ping pong table somewhere in North Korea with seven fellow captured crewmen of the U.S.S. Pueblo.

The picture and a letter from the Navy man arrived recently at the O'Bannon home in Beaverton, Ore.—one of a number of such letters coming to crewmen's families and high officials in the United States.

Mrs. O'Bannon thinks the letter is phony. And many other relatives of the Americans who were captured two months ago say that the letters they have received simply do not ring true.

Mrs. O'Bannon said the grin on her husband's face was the one he "always wore when I wanted him to do something he didn't want to do." She said she is pretty sure that the man is her husband and that he's wearing his "go to hell grin."

Unnatural Style

She said the letter was written in an unnatural style. He refers to her as "My dearest Kay," which she says he never would have written and to his parents as "the family" instead of the usual "Mom and Pop."

The letters to relatives, to President Johnson, and to senators are seen by the State Department as part of a propaganda effort by the North Korean Communists. Many of the letters call on the United States to apologize to North Korea for the activities of the electronic surveillance ship.

Mrs. Gerald Nolte of Washington, Iowa, said the letter from her son, Clifford, reads "like he had been forced to copy it from a blackboard."

The handwriting on the letter she got is definitely that of her son, says Mrs. Everett Arnold of Santa Rosa, Calif. But she said the letter from Richard reads as though he would start a sentence—and someone else would finish it.

Mrs. Lyle C. Shingleton of Atoka, Okla., mother of Seaman John Shingleton, does not think her son wrote the two identical letters she received.

One of her clues is the way the letters start: "Dear Mom and Dad." "He always starts out, 'Dear Folks'," Mrs. Shingleton said.

Like Mrs. O'Bannon, Mrs. Shingleton received a picture. Both photos were turned over to the Navy.

For Kennedy

Reagan's Men Rooting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan's political advisers are hoping that Robert F. Kennedy gets off to a fast start in his quest for the Democratic presidential nomination because, as one of them put it: "With Bobby in the picture, we may have a chance."

Two top men in the quiet campaign to win the Republican nomination for the California governor said in separate interviews that if Kennedy looks like a winner when the Republican convention opens Aug. 5, it could put GOP delegates in the market for a new face as an alternative to the current front-runner, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

If Kennedy becomes the Democratic nominee, one Reagan man said, "It will be harder for Republicans to campaign against the Johnson administration. After all, Bobby will have gotten the nomination by campaigning against the Johnson administration himself."

Want Good Early Showing
Since the Democratic convention opens three weeks after the Republican convention, the Reagan men are hoping for a strong early showing by Kennedy.

In the interim, the Reagan forces are trying to convince Republican favorite sons to stay off a Nixon bandwagon.

"If the favorite sons hold, it's impossible for a guy to get that nomination on the first ballot," a Reagan adviser said.

He echoed the California governor, who told a Sacramento news conference Monday: "There are now favorite-son delegations representing more than 700 votes. I'm still inclined to think it will be an open convention."

One of those delegations will represent California's 86 votes, pledged to Reagan.

Reagan has repeatedly denied he is an active candidate for the presidency. However, he won't remove his name from the presidential primary ballots in three states where it would take a disavowal of any intention of possibly becoming a candidate. Thus, Reagan's name will be on the ballot in Wisconsin, Nebraska and Oregon, though he has no plans to campaign in any of them.

Discussing Nixon, Reagan advisers tend to condemn the former vice president with faint praise.

"He (Nixon) has been one of the most comfortable candidates for a member of the Republican party to say he is for," one Reagan man said. "But how deep is that commitment?"

Not Much Enthusiasm
"It would be too strong to say he's (Nixon) not electable. But I've been surprised that with his campaign going so well, there's not much enthusiasm."

One Californian has gone to Florida well in advance of the convention. He is Robert C. Walker, a San Diego political lobbyist, relations man, hired to be chief of operations for Reagan in Miami.

Asked if it weren't a bit early for a professional non-candidate to have a representative setting up shop in the convention city, a Reagan confidant replied, "We're going to be ready for any eventuality."

Dear Abby

Not Worth the Worry

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago I gave birth to a baby boy. I was young and not married and could not care for him properly, so I gave him up for adoption and have not seen him since birth.

My problem is this: I am now married to the father of that child, which he totally rejected, and now we have a baby girl who is 6 months old. I would guess that your chances of ever having to face this problem are too small to worry about. There is no "law" that says that it couldn't happen, but the law of averages is certainly on your side.

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to you with some tips on how to be a good housekeeper. She said, "The secret is to finish one job before you start on another."

Sounds easy, but I would like to know what she would advise me to do:

I have eight rooms, eight kids and a mountain of ironing. Should I finish the ironing, or raise the kids first?

MRS. J. B. DEAR MRS. J. B.: Raise the kids, of course. But while you're raising them, teach 'em to iron.

DEAR ABBY: I plan to announce my engagement soon, and my problem is this: My fiancé's mother wants us to have a big wedding, and I don't want a big wedding.

My fiancé's family is quite wealthy, and his mother says they will pay for everything. Abby, I don't want to accept this kind of a gift from my future in-laws. Besides, aren't the bride's parents supposed to put on the wedding? Mine can afford only a simple little family affair, which is all I really want.

My fiancé's mother already has a "temporary guest list" of 200. She says she "owes" so many people, and there are other friends who will not invite her to their children's weddings if she doesn't invite

THEM to hers. She's already picked out the bridesmaids' dresses. How about that? Another thing. She told me she wanted me to have a baby right away because all her friends have grandchildren and she is way behind. Abby, I intend to teach school while my husband finishes law school, and we don't plan to have a baby "right away."

What am I going to do? My fiancé is in the middle of all this. He doesn't want to hurt his mother, but he doesn't want to be unhappy either. How can I stand up for my rights without having his mother hate me?

DEAR DISTRESSED: It may not be possible, but you'll have to take that chance if you want to be a free agent. I think you are right in refusing to allow your future mother-in-law to use your wedding to repay her social obligations. Tell her as respectfully as you can that your parents will put on the wedding, and thanks a lot.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JOEY: Don't let it bother you. No one who KNOWS you would ever accuse you of going Hollywood. Behind every successful man are at least 5,000 people who went to school with him.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I think you are right in refusing to allow your future mother-in-law to use your wedding to repay her social obligations. Tell her as respectfully as you can that your parents will put on the wedding, and thanks a lot.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JOEY: Don't let it bother you. No one who KNOWS you would ever accuse you of going Hollywood. Behind every successful man are at least 5,000 people who went to school with him.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR ABBY'S NEW BOOK, LET "WHAT TEEN-AGERS WANT TO KNOW" SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL. 90069

DEAR ABBY: I plan to announce my engagement soon, and my problem is this: My fiancé's mother wants us to have a big wedding, and I don't want a big wedding.

My fiancé's family is quite wealthy, and his mother says they will pay for everything. Abby, I don't want to accept this kind of a gift from my future in-laws. Besides, aren't the bride's parents supposed to put on the wedding? Mine can afford only a simple little family affair, which is all I really want.

My fiancé's mother already has a "temporary guest list" of 200. She says she "owes" so many people, and there are other friends who will not invite her to their children's weddings if she doesn't invite

THEM to hers. She's already picked out the bridesmaids' dresses. How about that? Another thing. She told me she wanted me to have a baby right away because all her friends have grandchildren and she is way behind. Abby, I intend to teach school while my husband finishes law school, and we don't plan to have a baby "right away."

What am I going to do? My fiancé is in the middle of all this. He doesn't want to hurt his mother, but he doesn't want to be unhappy either. How can I stand up for my rights without having his mother hate me?

DEAR DISTRESSED: It may not be possible, but you'll have to take that chance if you want to be a free agent. I think you are right in refusing to allow your future mother-in-law to use your wedding to repay her social obligations. Tell her as respectfully as you can that your parents will put on the wedding, and thanks a lot.

It's In The Stars —

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 29, 1968

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Extra weight of responsibility is evident. Cycle remains high. But with new contacts come added burdens. More people depend upon your judgment. To-day you are tested—and you win.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Past promises come to fore-front. You gain greater freedom if you fulfill obligations—that is lesson you learn today. Realize this. Live up to obligations.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): If you expect friends to offer good cheer you may be disappointed. More likely you will be presented with problems. Discuss issues but don't promise more than you can deliver.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Some today may try to hand over last minute assignments. Be gracious—but don't permit others to use you. Remember promises made to family. Extra work load not your own requires negotiation.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your ability to work out problems is put to test. Not all is easy. But persistence and experience win the day. Means not so good for pushing forward without proper training. Prepare.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Health and money may appear linked. Key is balance, moderation. Older individual may have valuable point—listen and learn. You may not move as fast as desired—but steady pace will win.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): If you insist that everyone agree, you run into real opposition. Your great ally today is diplomacy. Get along with people. Mate, partner may appear absent-minded. Don't force issues.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21):

Study LIBRA message. Remain in background, where passive. Permit others to take initiative. Your turn comes when wise individual takes notice. This is not too distant future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Responsibility connected with young persons comes to fore. Avoid impulsive, flamboyant action. Keep eye on budget. Don't permit others to run your affairs. Be firm.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Fine for measuring potential. You get realistic look at future prospects. Discussion at home adds up to enlightenment. Face facts, pleasant or otherwise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Restriction is evident today in expression of ideas. Some associates, relatives appear cranky. You will have to speak distinctly, lest your meaning be misinterpreted.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Be gracious—but don't permit others to use you. Remember promises made to family. Extra work load not your own requires negotiation.

ABCs on the 'Dream House'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Dream House," a quiz show that looks, sounds and seems like a carbon copy of the TV time-killers that abound in the day-time network schedules, made its ABC debut Wednesday night.

Human Interest, Greed
The half hour is compounded of ingredients—human interest and vicarious greed—that TV producers believe rivets housewives to their sets in the daylight hours. The show will be in its logical place next Monday when it makes its debut as an early afternoon program. It is filling the night time niche awkwardly—because the network had a half hour to fill through August and picked an inexpensive way to do it.

There are the usual quiz show accoutrements—buzzers, lights, a hearty master of ceremonies and nice-looking young couples with a tendency to throw themselves in each other's arms every time one gives a correct answer.

The questions ranged from the easy—"What do peratroops cry when they jump from planes?"—to the difficult—"What is the name of Everett Dirksen's first record album?"

The program, which intermingles entertainment and plugs, is of interest to the student of television. Top prize is a "dream house"—$40,000 worth of real estate. Thus part of the entertainment consists of showing models of one builder's dream houses. Lesser prizes consist of "dream dining rooms"—showing the wares of a furniture manufacturer and makers of china, glassware and hi-fi equipment—and "dream living rooms," with more incidental plugs.

In addition, of course there were the usual sales pitches in show breaks.

Another Mixture
When "Dream House" starts Monday, it will precede another new show, "Wedding Party." This seems to be a mixture of part "Bride and Groom" and part "This is Your Life."

The show, it is promised, will let the audience share the joyous days prior to a wedding and hear the happy couple tell of their first meeting. There will also be some film of the wedding itself.

Newspaper readers of the New York metropolitan area have seen advertisements by the show for couples to share their happiness. Producer Art Stark says that applications are rolling in at a rate of about 100 a day, of which 30 or 40 are interviewed and only a handful accepted.

Stark, formerly producer of "The Tonight Show" and "Good Company," believes couples are willing to open up what is usually considered to be a private affair "For the rewards—we give them their honeymoon and more—and a lot of them think this will make their wedding something special."

Among the rejected applicants have been couples willing to go through the ceremony a second time on camera, divorced couples willing to try again and a few cases where it seemed likely that the girl would become a mother before she became a bride.

UNANIMOUS SUPPORT — Governor Nelson Rockefeller and U. S. Senator Jacob Javits acknowledge the cheers of the members of the GOP State Committee after the committee gave the pair unanimous support. Rockefeller will get all the votes of the New York delegation at the GOP convention in Miami, and Javits will be renominated for senator. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

It Was Their Day

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Buoyed by the unanimous endorsement of the Republican State Committee, U.S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits set out today in quest of a third term and pleaded anew for the nomination of Gov. Rockefeller as his party's choice for the presidential nomination.

"He is the one Republican who has the best chance to win," the 63-year-old Javits told the state committee Wednesday, shortly after it made him its senatorial candidate and tapped Rockefeller to be a favorite-son presidential choice.

There was an aura of mutual esteem radiating from Javits and the governor at the big GOP conference. The approximately 200 committee members present heeded State Chairman Charles Schoenbeck's plea to take part in a draft movement for Rockefeller. They shouted their approval of a resolution naming him "the man qualified to be the GOP nominee and to serve as president."

Javits contributed to the spirit of the occasion by saying his wish was to run on the same ticket with Rockefeller for president.

Earlier, Javits said he expected Rockefeller would begin speaking out "in the most eloquent and forceful way" on problems confronting the nation, to show the voters exactly where he stood.

In turn, Rockefeller placed Javits' name in nomination, describing the senator as "a man of unique brilliance." He predicted a thumping victory for Javits in November.

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, too, was on hand to join in the tribute to Javits and Rockefeller. Lindsay, who has been mentioned as a dark horse possibility for the presidential nomination, made a conspicuous effort not to try to upstage Rockefeller.

"This is the governor's day and the senator's day," a top Lindsay aide told newsmen.

pressing for more Lindsay commitment.

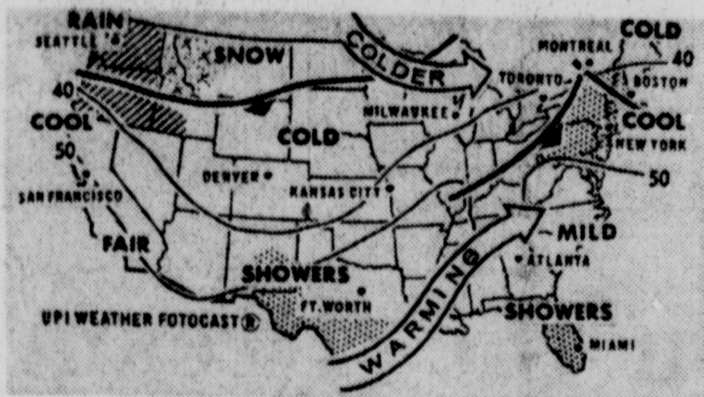

Rockefeller accepted the kudos of his party gratefully. "While I am not a candidate," he said a few minutes after gaining the favorite-son designation, "I would like to make what little contribution I can."

There was no doubt that the committee's action was designed to align the 92-member New York delegation squarely behind Rockefeller's leadership and non-active candidacy. While the resolution was non-binding, it was assumed that the delegates chosen in the June primary would heed the committee's will.

Besides nominating Javits, the committee endorsed Judge Adrian P. Burke of Manhattan for reelection to the Court of Appeals.

It was to act on the designation and nominations that the committee was summoned to Albany. The state's new direct-primary law required it as a substitute procedure for the old convention system of nominating candidates for statewide office.

The law requires the political parties' state committees to make their choices by April 2. Other contenders may challenge the endorsed candidates in the June primary.

Showers and thundershowers are expected from east New Mexico into lower Texas during tonight, as well as from the upper Ohio valley into parts of New England. It's Unveiling Time for Travia And His Budget-Cutting Device

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia was expected to unveil today a budgeting device that he says will enable the legislature to make huge cuts in the $494-million tax increase sought by Gov. Rockefeller.

Among other things, Travia contemplates scrapping Rockefeller's plan for a 22 per cent across-the-board surcharge on the state income tax, worth $270 million in revenue in the new fiscal year.

Would Minimize Effect

Instead, the powerful Democrat leader wants to substitute a much smaller income tax increase by adjusting the present tax brackets. His object is to minimize the effect on low wage earners.

Considerable suspense was building on capitol hill as rank-and-file lawmakers speculated on exactly what kind of budgeting trick Travia had in mind to rescue them from their tax dilemma.

Facing re-election campaigns, legislators in both parties are loathe to approve the Rockefeller tax package and have been dissatisfied with their fiscal committees' plan to cut $131 million from the governor's $5.5-billion budget. They have been groping for deeper cuts to reduce the tax problem further.

Travia aroused their hopes Tuesday when he told newsmen that he had come up with a fresh idea that would free many millions of dollars within the budget to apply against the revenue demand.

Enjoying the air of mystery that his remarks stirred, Travia persistently has refused to disclose details of his plan until he is ready. He has said only that it involves postponement of "some state payments."

Informed sources told The Associated Press, however, that Travia's idea was to delay local-assistance payments — that is, state aid for various programs, possibly including assistance to the schools.

Would Postpone Payments

Surcharge-Cut Tandem Opposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration reportedly is pushing hard for defeat of a proposal before the Senate that would combine a 10 per cent income tax surcharge with a $6 billion spending cut.

Senate Democratic leaders hoped to defeat the proposal — an amendment to the administration's excise-tax bill — in time to assure final action on the House-passed excise measure by today.

That timetable would pave the way for getting the main bill to President Johnson for his signature before excise taxes on cars and telephones expire at midnight Sunday.

In the House, Chairman William D. Mills, D-Ark., of the Ways and Means Committee said President Johnson's proposed tourist tax could be revived if the administration couples it with some kind of tax on imports.

The committee approved a bill imposing a 5 per cent tax on airline tickets for all flights abroad and reduced for 18 months the duty-free exemption for returning travelers from $100 to $10.

Johnson's original tourist tax proposal, held up by the committee, is designed to help combat the balance of payments late in the fiscal year beginning April 1 would be postponed until the following fiscal year. The recipients would still get their money — a bit later than usual — but the state would wind up its fiscal year with extra cash in the coffers.

Exactly how much money Travia hoped to reserve in this fashion could not be determined.

Meanwhile, as the week progressed with still no definite decision on the budget, it became evident that the state would enter its new fiscal year — next Monday — without an approved spending plan.

Earl W. Brydges, majority leader of the Republican-controlled Senate, said he still hoped to bring a revised budget to a vote by Saturday. He scheduled another closed conference with his GOP senators today to try to forge a budget agreement.

Travia, however, says he does not expect his house to act on the budget until next Monday or Tuesday, on the theory that Rockefeller's Republican colleagues in the Senate should take the first step.

The governor injected himself into the picture Wednesday by expressing "deep concern" over the $131 million in budget economies recommended by the fiscal committees. He said the cuts would cause a "drastic reduction" in many programs.

While the budget maneuvering continued, Rockefeller signed the only measure in his tax package that the legislature has approved. The bill would increase the state's tax take from pari-mutuel horse racing by an estimated $6.5 million in the coming fiscal year.
